

Violent Weather Batters Fox Valley

Tornado Sighted in Outagamie; Oshkosh Girl Killed by Branch

Stormy weather continued to batter the Fox Valley Thursday night, resulting in the death of a nine-year-old Oshkosh girl, the sighting of a tornado funnel and flooding of streets and basements.

The only casualty resulting from the high winds and heavy downpour was Tami Ann Barfell, 9, daughter of Ralph Barfell, Neenah, and Mrs. Patricia Barfell, 749 Wisconsin St., Oshkosh.

The girl was riding her bike near her home about 6:40 p.m. Thursday when a violent wind came up without warning and a large limb torn from a tree fell on her. The girl's companions ran to tell Larry Ulrich, 22, a neighbor, after the 33-foot limb struck Tami in the head.

Ulrich found her head pinned to the sidewalk by the limb. She was taken to Mercy Hospital, where she was pronounced dead. Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller said she died instantly of a broken neck and jaw and skull fractures.

Winnebago County Airport, Oshkosh, reported that heavy winds, gusting up to 60 miles per hour, moved in from the west without warning about 6:30 p.m. The storm lasted only several minutes, but it tore down many branches in the north end of the city where the girl lived and in the northwest part of the county.

Most of the Fox Valley area was placed under tornado watch during the afternoon and evening. A funnel cloud was reported by Bob Drinkard and Fred Strobel of Maxair, Inc. at the Outagamie County Airport about 6:30 p.m.

'Didn't Touch'

Drinkard told The Post-Crescent that he and Strobel saw what was "definitely a funnel cloud, but it didn't touch ground." The high cloud was in sight for about two to three minutes to the northeast. Drinkard estimated it was five miles from the airport.

The men notified the weather bureau.

Appleton was struck with a series of thunderstorms in the late afternoon. A storm about 5 p.m. hit only the south side, while a 6:30 p.m. shower which covered the entire city brought hail to the south side, with none reported on the north side.

A third storm at 7:30 p.m. was the heaviest and longest. A fourth downpour at about 10:30 p.m. finished the evening's severe weather.

A total of 1.51 inches of rain for Thursday was recorded by the Appleton weather station of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. Only .01 inch was reported from midnight on this morning, but one forecast predicted good chances of rain between 2 and 6 p.m. today.

The flood stage was reached in low-lying areas bordering the Wolf River near New London, where the water level has hit seven feet. Some farmland has been flooded. Observers reported rain from about 10 p.m. Thursday to 4 a.m. today.

Temporary Ponds
Some Appleton street intersections formed temporary ponds as the rains came fast and furiously. City workers put up a barricade on E. Calumet Street near James Madison Junior High School about 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Appleton Director of Public Works Frank Keuler said the measure was necessary because

Knowles Backs Stand

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles today repeated support for the Shorewood site of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay in the face of Thursday's Assembly action giving preliminary approval to a bill which would transfer the campus to the Larsen Farms site.

But he stopped short of saying he would veto the bill if it reached his desk.

"Unless there are some new facts developed in the court proceeding or the debate on the bill now before the Legislature, I would have no alternative but to support the decision of the site selection committee as it now exists," Knowles said.

three hours of debate. Green Bay lawmakers, who led the fight to block approval of the bill, managed through procedural moves to block a final vote. It was to be brought up again today, when the Green Bay forces plan to move for reconsideration of the bill, throwing any final action on the measure into next week.

When the bill does pass the Assembly, it will be forwarded to the Senate — where it is considered doomed. Due to the fast-moving session, however, action on it in the upper house cannot be expected before next fall.

The bill, offered by Assemblyman William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, split both Assembly party caucuses deeply and won passage only after Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, descended from the podium and returned to the floor for the first time this session to fight for the measure.

Split With Alfonsi
Froehlich chose the bill for the first instance in which he has addressed the Assembly in this session — and the Rogers Bill proved to be the first which divided him from powerful Republican Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi this year.

Alfonsi fought against the bill, saying that only a court should decide if irregularities were involved in the Green Bay university site selection process. Froehlich appealed for passage of the bill which he has been pushing for five months, using the broad powers of the speakership.

"The site selection committee did a rough-shod job of doing their job (in picking the Shorewood site) and that is why we are here today," Froehlich said. Froehlich, Rogers and Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, led the fight to pass the

Kosygin Heads for U.N. Session

Emergency Meeting Set For Saturday

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — With Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin already en route to New York, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant announced today the General Assembly will meet in emergency session Saturday to deal with the Middle East situation.

The session, scheduled to open at 9:30 a.m. EDT, is expected to turn into a high-level meeting with other government chiefs, possibly including President Johnson, appearing at later stages.

The main debate is scheduled to begin Monday. The United States will lead off, followed by Kosygin, who will launch the Soviet drive for U.N. censure of Israel and for withdrawal of Israeli troops from occupied areas of Egypt, Syria and Jordan.

Saturday's meeting will be devoted to formalities.

Majority Approval
The secretary-general called the emergency session after a majority of the 122 member nations gave their approval to a Soviet request.

Only the United States and Israel declined to concur.

A U.S. spokesman said it had not been determined whether Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg or some other official would speak for the United States in the debate Monday.

At the opening meeting, the assembly is expected to re-elect Afghan Ambassador Abdul Rahman Pazhwak as president and deal with other preliminaries.

The expectation is that Kosy-

Kennedy Loses In Harvard Vote

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., has lost an election — he failed to win a place on the Board of Overseers at Harvard University.

The results of the mail election spread over the world showed him among the losing five of 10 Harvard graduates nominated for the board. The results were announced Thursday at the Harvard commencement.

The late President John F. Kennedy was a member of the Board of Overseers from 1957 to 1963, but he also failed to win election on his first nomination.

gin will open the debate Monday with a demand for the immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces from the areas of Egypt, Jordan and Syria they occupied in the war last week.

Kosygin, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and 48 aides left Moscow by special plane today for New York. They were to stop in Paris for the Soviet premier to confer on the Middle East crisis with President Charles de Gaulle, then fly on tonight to New York.

There was no indication yet whether De Gaulle would attend the assembly meeting. He and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson are scheduled to meet in Paris Monday.

Gives Reason
U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, informing Thant of the U.S. refusal to concur in the Soviet request for the assembly session, said his government felt the Security Council rather than the assembly should continue to carry the load of peace-seeking in the Middle East.

Soviet Premier, U. S. President Might Get Together on Vietnam

ident Alexei N. Kosygin are expected to discuss the Vietnamese war and peace possibilities as well as the Middle East crisis if they talk during Kosygin's United Nations trip.

U.S. officials said it was inconceivable the two could get together without touching on several issues, particularly the Vietnamese conflict.

The White House said Thursday the President "would, of course, be glad to see" the Soviet premier if Kosygin wants to see the President.

But diplomats and American officials consider at least one talk between the two to be a certainty — unless Kosygin's conduct at an expected U.N. General Assembly session called for by Moscow is so violent against Israel and the United States that the resulting atmosphere would make a top-level talk impossible.

American diplomats who know Kosygin, however, say he is not likely to go to such extremes.

Bitter Campaign
Former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev attended a General Assembly session in 1960 and waged a bitter campaign against the United States, pounding the desk with his shoe. There was no talk with President Dwight D. Eisenhower that time.

Kosygin's trip to the United Nations is regarded here as a dramatic gesture to convince the Arab states the Soviet Union is going all the way in its support for them and its opposition to Israeli conquests in last week's war.

U.S. officials expect angry attacks on the U.S. role in the Middle East as Kosygin and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko seek to consolidate Soviet influence in the Arab world and turn Arab sentiment into bitter anti-Americanism. But they expect Kosygin will try to keep the damage to direct U.S.-Soviet relations limited.

The Soviet foreign office announced Thursday Kosygin's trip to New York a few hours before he was scheduled to leave Moscow with an itinerary that includes a Paris conference with French President Charles de Gaulle.

Rockefeller Says He

Could Be 'Favorite Son'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, still contending he will not permit his name to be entered in any presidential primary, says he may become New York's favorite-son candidate for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination — "as a last resort."

The New York governor said today he would accept the favorite-son candidacy only to unify the state delegation to the GOP national convention.

Substitute Measure Approved

Committee Refuses to Okay 21 Beer Age, Implied Consent

MADISON (AP) — The Assembly Highways Committee voted unanimously today to reject Gov. Warren P. Knowles' highway safety package and recommended a drastically rewritten substitute version.

The version reported out of committee on a 12-0 vote eliminated the governor's call for a uniform 21-year-old beer drinking age and his implied consent provision requiring intoxication tests for suspected drunken drivers.

"I think the substitute guts the bill proposed by the governor for a total highway program," said Arvid Sather, Knowles' legal adviser who drafted the measure.

19-Year Minimum
In place of the 21-year-old beer drinking minimum, the substitute would insert a 19-year-old minimum without any local options.

Knowles' top aides, including Sather, had urged the committee to act on his omnibus package and ignore the substitute. But the committee voted 12-0 to spurn the governor's plea, then sent the rival safety bill to the floor on a 10-2 roll call.

The entire package now goes to the Assembly for debate. Assembly Majority Leader Curtis McKay, R-Cedarburg, conceded the committee refusal to abide by Knowles' request was a point against the GOP chief executive.

"But it doesn't mean he has lost the battle," McKay said.

Knowles told the committee during its hearings on the Senate-approved program that he considered the 21-year beer age and implied consent the most crucial provisions.

Assemblyman Elmer Nit-schke, R-Beaver Dam, said before the vote today that he was not against implied consent.

"But if you're going to pass a safety bill, I think you have to vote on this separately," he added. Additional amendments to the substitute recommended by the committee are certain to be offered from the Assembly floor when the debate begins next week.

Assemblyman G. K. Anderson, R-Waupaca, primary author of the substitute proposal, urged the committee to recommend adoption of his version and amend it later if anyone wanted.

"I think it's a fine point from which to start work," he said. More than 50 amendments have been offered to Knowles' original bill. Some of them were included in the rewritten version offered by Anderson and 14 other assemblymen from both sides of the political aisle.

Sather told the committee that recommending the alternative proposal would probably keep the Assembly from actually considering the governor's package, one of his three main legislative programs this session.

"In effect, you would not be acting on the governor's program but on something totally different," Sather said.

Sather again told the committee today many of the same criticisms of the substitute proposal that he made at the Thursday night session.

"When you get right down to it, all that would be left of the bill would be driver's education and vehicle inspection," Sather said.

The driver education section would require persons under 18 to pass an approved course before getting a license. The inspection portion would require all vehicles to be checked once a year.

House Rejects I & J Rail Plan

Labor Spokesman Says Train Strike
Monday Not Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — A defiant House rejected President Johnson's bid to guarantee settlement of a nationwide rail strike but a union pledge eased fears most U.S. trains will halt Monday.

Senate refusal to accept the surprise action — in which the House approved a 90-day no-strike extension but killed Johnson's proposal for a compulsory settlement if negotiations failed — could block indefinitely passage of legislation.

But the Railway Labor Executive Association, spokesman for 137,000 shopcraft union workers, pledged not to call a strike if the legislation goes to a House-Senate conference. The union organization's statement was read on the floor Thursday by Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., of the House Commerce Committee.

Without Blame
That appeared a temporary lifesaver for congressmen who don't want to be blamed for a strike but don't want to be connected with a compulsory settlement, either.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Senate sponsor of the Johnson measure, called the House action "a legislative mockery" and said he'd urge Senate conferees to reject it. The Senate earlier had passed the administration bill.

The House action, taken without members having to go on record as to how they voted, was in part a reaction to two days of intensive administration pressure to approve the Senate-passed bill without any changes.

It also represented resentment on the part of many members at being forced to vote on a proposal which closely resembled compulsory arbitration, strongly opposed by organized labor.

The action constitutes the second rebuff by the House to Johnson's prestige in eight days. Last week it rejected an administration measure to increase the ceiling on the national debt.

BY JEAN OTTO
Post-Crescent Women's Editor

Wisconsin fashion manufacturers run the gamut from elegant clutch purses to at home lounging slippers to handsomely knitted scarves, hats and mittens. All were part of the recent Heritage-Milwaukee preview for representatives of the nation's fashion press.

With histories that go back to the last century, or began in the early 1900s, three firms who showed their wares as Heritage-Milwaukee moved about southern Wisconsin for the shows were Rolfs-Division of Amity Leather Products Co., Ripon Knitting Works and Appleton's Zwicker Knitting Mills. The three firms add versatility and quality to the overall fashion excellence that has become part of Wisconsin's heritage.

Zwicker Knitting Mills designed the winterwear above and at left. The toque of knitted wool and other fabrics, above left, is in a tomato red diamond pattern outlined in white on a mustard background. The stole is brass green in a lacy pattern with tassel-like ends. At right, the pattern is repeated in a long stocking cap and stole, knitted in mohair, nylon and wool. Tomato and brass green are mixed with small amounts of white and melon. At left is a stocking cap and poncho, in white textured wool knit with fringe on the poncho and matching tassel on the cap.

Zwicker Laces Fall With Color

Zwicker Knitting Mills of Appleton, although new to Heritage - Milwaukee, proved itself no novice to fashion when it previewed its fall fashion line after an outdoor box lunch at Little Norway. Showing how the skillful combination of yarns and patterns can create fashion that will appeal to all ages and all parts of the country, Zwicker showed the sophistication of its product.

Long the manufacturer of mittens and headwear marketed under other nationally known names, Zwickers has now launched its line bearing the Zwicker label.

Color combinations such as red and mustard are certain to appeal to the young and swingy set. So are the stocking cap and a poncho with fringed border.

Also a certain popularity plus was the red helmet with pompons that dangled like earrings from ear flaps.

Zwicker, founded in 1919 by brothers Arthur, Dewey and Walter Zwicker, now has mills in Milwaukee, Shawano and Waupaca, with over 1,600 employees. Lloyd Paul is president.

Clues Help 'Crews' Decipher Destination for 'Road Rally'

Clues for crews, an old touring car, and directions in the form of games and crossword puzzles lent an atmosphere of intrigue, adventure and fun to a "road rally" party Saturday evening.

Participating were members of Parties Inc., who were sent initial instructions a week before the event. The group of 60 plans four such get-togethers a year. Invitations inform members only of the time and date of each party.

For Saturday's "road rally" members were divided into three groups. They were given crossword puzzles to solve, instructing to which crew and car individuals were assigned. Drivers needed a valid license and a car with an operating horn, lights and a tank of "petrol". Navigators were given maps of Wisconsin and of the United States. Kibitzers were asked to have paper, pencils, a watch and a deck of playing cards.

Crews met at 7:30 p.m. at 975 Bridgewood Drive, Neenah, to receive final instructions. Cars were equipped with flashlights, first aid kits, spare tire, bumper jacks, water thermoses and survival kits containing bandages, aspirins, matches and magnifying glasses.

Clues, sealed in separate envelopes, were given to each crew. Participants were warned to avoid shortcuts because odometers would be checked at the destination point. Each passenger was expected to help decipher directions and find landmarks.

Unravel Clues

Instructions "to a shady spot where a man called Alexander resides" led participants to a telephone booth. By continuing north and following the bend "until reaching our state" drivers arrived at Wisconsin Avenue. "Following the advice of Horace Greeley and bridging the gap to a civil rights street," guided motorists west to Lincoln Street.

As clues were deciphered and directions followed, the crews found themselves driving through Appleton and out of town, winding along country roads until they reached the final destination — Oakwood Hills Supper Club at Combined Locks.

Award Trophies

Trophies were awarded to the winners. Losers received compasses.

Parties Inc. was initiated 10 years ago. Five couples serve on the committee for each of the group's four social events. Dr. and Mrs. Irwin Greene were chairmen of Saturday's road rally. Assisting them were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Napuck, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Friedman, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bromberg and Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Balkansky.

Pixie Slipperettes by Ripon Footwear are of stretch nylon with elastic at the ankle, trimmed with golden balls set with multicolor stones.

Ripon Footwear Knits a Pretty Fashion Footnote

Little Norway, about 25 miles west of Madison, was a perfect setting for the elfin good looks of fashions by Ripon Knitting Works. Inside the replica of the 12th Century Christian - Norwegian Church built in Thronheim in 1885, the snug winter footwear presented the charm of comfort and good styling.

Models in Norwegian costume presented shoes called Sundals, with split leather uppers and sole and insole of man made materials. Colors were gold, chili red, black, dark green, natural and rust.

New Tricks

True to its reputation for fine knitted footwear, the firm, founded in 1880, did some fashion tricks with stretch nylon trimmed with elastic at the ankle line. Golden balls trimmed with multicolor stones served as sparkly decoration. Slipperettes for cold winter evenings by a hearth fire were of stretch nylon and sparkling metallic, giving a touch of glamour to at home evenings. Ripon showed its pace with fashion in use of metallic silver and gold in buttons or pompons for that special look of elegance.

During its early years, Ripon Knitting Works concentrated on heavy work socks and leather mits for lumbermen. In 1946 it first introduced slipper socks and soon was the leading manufacturer of these "shoe-socks" in the nation. The firm then entered the production of casual footwear.

In 1947, after purchasing Portage Hosiery Co., Portage, the firm consolidated all knitting operations there. Knitted items now include sport and casual hosiery, boot and hunting socks, ski and skate socks, knitted gloves, mittens, caps and ski accessories.

The 1951 purchase of another manufacturing plant in Waupun brought increased production of "Slipperettes" and casual footwear. It began to make terry scuffs, boots, leather and fabric flats, deer-skin casuals, folding slippers and leather thongs and sandals.

The firm now employs over 500 in its three plants.

Stretch Nylon and sparkling metallic are combined in these Slipperettes by Ripon Footwear, showing the elegance possible for winter evenings. These are in black flashing in silver. Silver and gold are also available.

Leather Leans to Elegance

New ideas in design are right at home with Rolfs-Division of Amity Leather Products Co., founded in 1915 in West Bend. Showing its new fall line at a breakfast aboard Wisconsin's most expensive and luxurious railroad car, Rolfs paraded its leather accessories on silver trays carried by "Harvey Girls" For Evening

Styles ranged from tailored and utilitarian for daytime to elegant brocades for evening. They pointed up eloquently that fashion is more than any single item. Rather it is a total concept, that includes every fashion accessory.

Rolfs started as an "idea" company, with the conviction that billfolds could become more than utilitarian. Robert Rolfs put his ideas to work, aided by one employee, a killed leather craftsman. Mr. Rolfs was everything else — designer, plant superintendent, credit manager, sales manager and entire sales force. In a year it had outgrown its one room and had an eastern sales office. Today it employs 800, in plants in West Bend and Turgum Bay, as well as England, Canada and Puerto Rico.

Besides regular pocket accessories for men, the Rolfs line includes travel accessories, travel kits and matched design groups.

Outstanding in the line it presented for women this autumn were the late day group, including a design of dild cowhide with panels of mostly French imported fabric featuring handclipped emerald elvel drops, woven with metallic thread. In the group are British purses, a British clutch, cigarette case, slim lighter and eyeglass case. Never forgetting practicality, but making it an integral

Ford Debutante to Bow in Splendor

DETROIT — Martha Parke "Muff" Ford of the Ford and Firestone industrial families, makes her formal society debut tonight.

The family won't give out any details, but it appears the affair will rival the debuts of her Ford cousins. The debuts of Charlotte and Anne Ford were estimated to have cost a quarter-million dollars each.

Miss Ford is the daughter of William Clay Ford, one of Henry Ford's grandsons.

Six hundred guests, led by the Ford family of Detroit and the deb's maternal grandparents, the Harvey S. Firestones of Akron, Ohio, will dine and dance through the night to the music of Meyer Davis and his 25 piece orchestra, and a rock 'n' roll band, The Young Rascals.

Scene of the debut will be the Ford's suburban home on Lake St. Clair.

The rambling, two-story home is a Georgian structure of red brick with white columns and black shutters. Guests will wander through box-hedged formal gardens only a few feet from the water's edge.

The entire area will be decorated in pink, yellow and white seasonal flowers with white satin trimmings.

Miss Ford, will wear a full-length, sleeveless, princess style gown of white organza, embroidered with roses. She will carry a traditional nosegay of pink, yellow and white rosebuds.

The orchestra, which has played for President Johnson, is the same one that played for the debuts of Muff's cousins, Charlotte and Anne Ford, in 1959 and 1961.

The father of the 18-year-old debutante is the largest individual stockholder of the Ford Motor Co., started by his grandfather; the sole owner of the Detroit Lions and one of the owners of the Detroit Cougars soccer club.

Henry Ford II, board chairman of Ford Motor Co., is her uncle.

Her mother is the former Martha Parke Firestone, daughter of rubber magnate Harvey S. Firestone Jr. and Mrs. Firestone, of Akron, Ohio.

Members of Parties Inc. held a road rally party Saturday evening. They met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Napuck, 975 Bridgewood Drive, Neenah, to receive final instructions in hte form of puzzles. At the Napuck residence they looked at a hand out the ace of hearts, hoping for a doubleton K-Q.

Nothing miraculous happened on the ace of hearts, and South eventually lost two trumps and two spades. Down one.

South complained that he couldn't take a trump finesse without some trumps in dummy, but he was quite wrong. The opponents would have come to his rescue if he had played the hand properly.

Ruff Diamonds

After taking the king of spades South should lead a diamond to the ace and ruff a diamond. He continues with the king and queen of clubs and then ruffs another diamond. Next comes a club to the ace and a third diamond ruff.

South gets out of his hand with a spade, needing only two more tricks. His last three cards are the A-J-10 of hearts, and South is sure of his contract no matter which opponent wins the spade trick.

If East is in and returns a trump, South can take a finesse with the ten of hearts. West can win, but must then yield the last two tricks to South's A-J of trumps.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S J 7 4 2 H None D A J 9 7 5 C A Q 5 2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid three diamonds. The hand is slightly too strong for a jump to three spades. The jump in a new suit is a stronger hint that the combined hands may be good enough for a slam.

The Newest Craze in the Teen-Age World, Psychedelics, is a surrealistic form of rock and roll involving lights, smoke, sound, flashing pictures, and other eerie effects designed to involve the audience mentally and physically in a "happening."

'Psychedelics' Circle Into City

The latest craze in teen-age music, psychedelics, has just hit the Fox Cities. The psychedelic sound is a surrealistic form of pop music with a theory of "Turn on; tune in; drop out." The "Stormy Mondays," a rock and roll band capitalizing on the fad, is now playing at an Appleton teen bar in a presentation entitled "Psychedelic Syndrome." James La Bresh, the group's rhythm guitar player, explains that "psychedelic music is made to drive your mind and create hallucinatory effects." And that is exactly what happens when the five average-looking musicians start winding out. The audience is involved in an unbelievable combination of lights, sounds, smoke, flashing pictures, and eerie effects which combine to create the first pop sound ever to involve an audience not only sonically but also visually and physically—psychedelic music.

The 'In' Sound

The "Stormy Mondays" are managed by Terrell Hedeman, who says that psychedelics is "the biggest thing in music right now." But he adds, "Our show is not as far out as those in California where psychedelics was born." Ours is referred to as "light" show, as opposed to the "colors."

The five-member band, from Rochester, Minn., uses some exceptionally effective devices to create its effect. One is a fog machine, which pours out billows of harmless smoke, wrapping the crowd in a shroud of multi-colored smog. The second device is a strobe light. This is a high-intensity beam which flickers on and off rapidly over the audience, making the crowd look like an old-fashioned flickering nickelodeon. Mr. Hedeman says that the light accomplishes this by "dulling emotions and slowing reactions." The result is a room that appears to be taking off and dancers who lose their sense of balance.

Psychedelic music was born in the summer of 1966 in California and spread rapidly throughout the United States. There is no doubt that it is largely the result of the current emphasis on LSD, the controversial drug. Although it has nothing to do with LSD, the psychedelic effect is designed to "recreate a trip without the harmful effects of the drug," according to the group's drummer, Craig Betcher. Like most other rock and roll fads, it was born of teen-age frustration, the desire of adolescents to have something of their own.

The term psychedelic means mind-infesting. The music is not the usual steady rock and roll beat. Instead, each musician is allowed to play his own version of a known song. If the resulting undisciplined sounds fit together, it is psychedelic. It is designed to be psychologically stimulating—to involve the crowd both mentally and physically.

The "Stormy Mondays" began their performance with an introduction "Tonight you're going to take a trip—a trip into the fifth dimension of hallucination." What follows for the audience might include cartoons flashed on the walls, accompanied by tape from newscasts on the Vietnamese war, all over the frantic music of the band. Blue and orange smoke curls up from the floor, while colored lights blink on and off, and dancers seem to move in slow motion through the flashing strobe lights. It is a "happening!"

Where the rock and roll fads will go from here is difficult to predict, but for the moment, the "in" sound is surrounding teens across the nation. The Psychedelic Syndrome is here.

Your Problems

Child of Unwed Mother Often Feels Sense of Personal Loss

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A recent column telling unwed mothers not to worry because their babies would land in the loving arms of eager parents was a trifle misleading. I hope you will print my letter in the interest of accuracy. I happen to be an out-of-wedlock boy who was raised in an orphanage.

When I was small I cut out a magazine picture of a woman working in the kitchen. It was an ad for linoleum. I pretended the woman in the ad was my mother. When I was sick, or hurt, or when things weren't going well I would look at that picture and play like my mother was coming to take me home with her.

She never did come. When I left the orphanage I knocked around a lot. Every time I hit a new town I would wonder if my mother lived there. I would wonder if she was happily married — if I had brothers and sisters and if they looked like me.

Many years have passed and I am still wondering. I'm sure I'll continue to wonder until the day I die.

So please, Ann Landers, don't give unwed mothers the idea that life is going to be peaches and cream for their babies. It doesn't always turn out that way. —Not So Lucky.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Of course it doesn't, but it costs nothing to look at the brightest possible side of a situation that is agonizing at best. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have known this couple for many years and I would say they are both friends of ours. I have suspected for a long time that the husband has been chasing around behind his wife's back but of course I kept this to myself.

Three times in the last month the wife has called me and made reference to her husband and my husband going to a meeting together or entertaining out-of-town lodge members. The way she worded it I am sure her husband is using my husband as an alibi. I have gone with this monkey business because I hated to let the wife know her husband was lying, but my conscience is bothering me and I don't want to lie any more.

My husband says if I don't protect this man it will be the same as turning him in and I could be responsible for the

Hiring of Sanitarian Up to County Board

Ramp Critics Place Blame On Contractor

Claim Parking Policy Change Should Not Have Caused Delays

Strong criticism of the construction progress at the new Soldiers Square parking ramp leveled by a citizen member of the parking commission earlier in the week, was not unexpected.

W. A. Close, who has been pushing for opening of the 450-car structure on a partial basis if possible, spoke out on construction delays and proposed parking fees.

Although the commission for the most part opposed the change from meter to cashier parking system at the ramp, while it was favored by Close and voted into effect by the city council in February, there are those who agree with the College Avenue merchant that delays have been unnecessary.

10-Week Delay
They, along with Close, contend the parking system change did not account for a 10-week delay in getting the ramp finished and in operation.

Officials of Standard Construction Minneapolis, the general contractor, and Richard C. Rich and Associates, Detroit, parking consultant, are expected in Appleton in a few days to inspect the public-works project.

On parking rates, Close was misquoted Thursday in The Post-Crescent's account of the latest parking commission meeting.

Close said he would favor a rate structure, after the cashier system is installed, calling for a fee of 10 cents the first hour and 15 cents for each hour thereafter. (The Post-Crescent mistakenly listed the same rates for half-hour segments.) He feels a liberalized rate will attract more parkers and put the ramp to maximum use.

Outagamie Health Committee Will Have Resolution Ready for Action at July's Night Session

Outagamie County Board members will be asked during their July session to pass a resolution authorizing the county to hire a professional sanitarian.

A motion authorizing preparation of the resolution was offered Thursday afternoon by Supv. Waldemar Klein, Appleton, and approved by the board's health, education and institutions committee.

The proposal grew out of a survey by hydrologist Gerald Paul of the Northeastern Regional Planning Commission, which pointed out many existing health and sanitation problems within the county.

Elicit Comments
The morning session of the meeting was designed to acquaint committee members with existing problems and elicit comments on the proposed sanitarian from village and town chairmen and representatives of citizens' groups.

General opinion seemed to be that problems did exist and that some action on the county level was advisable.

Complaints against the effectiveness of the State Board of Health again were heard. Committee chairman Supv. Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, stated, "The best place to start is right at home rather than ask the state for help. We know the problems here."

The only dissenting opinion was voiced by Supv. Emmett Root, Ellington, who said he was in favor of continuing the existing local health-officer structure.

Present Motion
A second motion was presented by Supv. Arnold Welch, Appleton. This motion asked that the committee meet with Corporation Counsel A. W. Poth to draft an ordinance and be advised as to the legalities involved in the hiring of a health official and the execution of his duties.

In this, the first move to take the proposal out of the committee discussion stage, DeLaHunt said, "Sooner or later we have to get this on the board floor. I think we have learned as much as we can about attitudes."

The committee expressed some hope that because the July session of the county board is scheduled as a night meeting that some public reaction to the proposal would be indicated.

Appleton Asks Board to Study Property Trade

Hoover Land Urged For School Site, Roeland for Park

A trade of properties which would provide a compromise site for the proposed new south-side grade school and develop a large park for the area at the same time was proposed by Appleton officials at a special meeting with the Park Board this morning.

The city council's Land Acquisition Committee asked the Park Board to study the possibility of giving up the 11-acre Hoover Park property which then could be utilized for the construction of the new school.

In return, the city would turn an estimated 22 acres of the recently acquired Roeland property over to the park board for development of a major park-recreation facility. A decision will be made soon.

Has Baseball Diamonds
Hoover Park is mostly flat land with two baseball diamonds and some playground equipment. It was acquired in 1959.

City officials and planners feel the Roeland site, which includes both table land and wooded area, would be ideal for a park.

Ald. James Bethke (9th.), in whose ward the properties are located, was vehemently opposed to taking Hoover Park

WMPCO to Share Rebates of $140,000 From Pipe Company

A total of $140,000 will be refunded during July to natural gas customers in the Fox Cities area.

Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. (WMPCO) announced today. The refund will be shared by 16,280 WMPCO customers in Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and surrounding towns. The Public Service Commission gave the necessary approval Tuesday for the refund.

"We will pass along to our gas customers refunds we have collected from the pipeline supplier," Merlin Abler, director of marketing, explained. "We received the refunds when federal regulatory agencies made some adjustments in the price increases charged by the pipeline company. We were able to absorb the increases and did not have to pass them along to customers. Now we are pleased to pass along the refunds."

Credits on Bills
The refunds will take the form of credits on July bills, Abler said. He explained that residential gas customers will receive refunds ranging from 50 cents to $4.

Larger refunds will go to customers who also use natural gas for home heating. Refunds will be distributed in proportion to the amount of gas used by each residential customer.

Large industrial and commercial customers will receive refund checks, also based on gas consumption.

The last across-the-board refund to all WMPCO gas customers was made in August, 1965.

Health Department Registers Nine Births During May

A sharp increase in illegitimate births was registered during May with nine incidents reported to the Appleton Health Department.

The illegitimacy rate has been reflecting a gradual increase in recent months.

Last month, five were from Appleton and four non-resident.

The total number of births at Appleton's two hospitals was 152, including 75 non-resident.

A spurt in communicable diseases among young children was also reported by Health Commissioner Dr. James Laird, noting that 71 cases of mumps and 56 chicken pox were reported locally.

The leading causes of deaths in May were heart failure (17) and cancer (8). Appleton also had one accident fatality.

New Proposal Frees Undersheriff For More Investigative Work

The Outagamie County Board's law enforcement committee Thursday afternoon approved for recommendation to the executive committee a sheriff's department plan that would include the hiring of a process server and the freeing of the undersheriff for investigative duties.

The plan received unanimous approval by committee members, and now will come up for action at a joint executive-law enforcement committee meeting. No date was set for the meeting.

Specifically, the three-point plan provides that a man be hired as soon as possible to work out of the sheriff's department serving legal papers; that the serving of legal papers be formally stricken from the county's job and wage plan as part of the undersheriff's duties.

Teen-Age Driver Is First 'Victim' Of Car Key Law

A teen-age motorist has become the first "victim" of Appleton's recently-enacted car key ordinance.

Erwin H. Zick, 18, 918 E. Frances St., Appleton, was fined $25 and costs in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 this morning after he pleaded guilty of leaving the ignition key in his unattended auto early the morning of June 8.

An Appleton patrolman who was investigating another complaint spotted Zick's 1955 auto parked in the 600 block of N. Badger Avenue about 1:45 a.m. He took the keys to the police station after first securing the vehicle.

Zick was issued the citation when he came to the station to pick up his keys at 3:05 a.m. June 8.

and that no action be taken to fill an investigator position left vacant last month with the resignation of Russell Bowers.

Need Investigator

Marx, who made the appeal in the morning and again after the proposal was passed in the afternoon, told committee members, "If you want to give me a process server, fine, but give me an investigator first. I need one so bad it hurts."

The sheriff told the committee the work load is too heavy for the three remaining investigators, the undersheriff and the sheriff. "If you don't give me the man, I can't do the job properly," Marx said.

Appleton Supv. Eugene Kloes, chairman of the enforcement committee, told Marx the committee would rather "try out" the proposal made Friday; then if the need was shown for an investigator, one could be added.

Add Duties

Kloes said the process server could conceivably handle other sheriff's department duties, such as investigation work, when his work load is slack.

For the past several years, it has been the duty of the undersheriff to serve legal papers brought to the sheriff's department. When Bowers resigned, Marx moved Undersheriff Calvin Spice temporarily to investigator and has had off-duty county patrolmen serve the papers. The law enforcement committee, and some other board members, have many times sought to take paper serving out of the hands of the undersheriff.

Appleton Supv. John R. Schreiter said Thursday the proposal would "allow the sheriff to more fully utilize his experience and capabilities of the undersheriff for investigation work."

21 School Board Presidents Meet in Appleton

Timetable Slated for Forming New Fox Valley Vocational District Board

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Urgency was the key word as presidents of the school boards forming the new Fox Valley vocational district set a time schedule Thursday to organize the new structure by July 1.

Presidents of the 25 school boards in Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca and Calumet counties forming Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12 have until Monday to submit nominations for the six-member board.

A selection committee of presidents will meet in executive session Monday to review the names. They will present proposals to the presidents at 8 p.m. next Thursday at Einstein Junior High School.

The names of the elected board members will be submitted to the State Vocational Board for approval on or before June 26.

Calls For Responsibility

General Chairman Charles Buchanan, president of the Appleton Board of Education, called for full responsibility to meet the "urgency forced upon us by the short time."

"I have no intention that you will make a board selection tonight because most of us are unfamiliar with the nominations from throughout the total area. It will be a mess if we act too fast."

The urgency for action by July 1 was keynoted by Eugene Lehrmann, assistant director of the State Vocational Board, Madison, who told the 21 board presidents present. "The district has been formed and the State Vocational Board asks that you appoint a new area board to run the new district and the existing six vocational schools by July 1, 1967."

"While we do not expect you to select the board tonight, we are asking that your board appointments of two employers, two employees and two members-at-large be in our hands on or before June 26 for our approval."

Advices on Interpretation
He advised the selection committee that the intent of the law creating the new district, as interpreted by his department, was equitable representation, based on population, from the four-county area in which the 25 school districts are located.

If the area board of District 12 is not appointed by area board presidents and approved by the State Vocational Board, the action could be delayed for Police, who were summoned Thursday afternoon, said the vandals used blue paint to spray 21 Ms and five 69s on various parts of the building. The letters and numbers were six inches to three feet high, police said.

Several other similar types of vandalism reports have been received in recent weeks, according to police.

Four-Fold Peace Plan Discussed During UCC Delegate Conference

Rev. Huber Klemme Discusses Council's Recommendations for Accord in Asia

The purpose of the church in today's world was discussed by two leaders of the United Church of Christ (UCC) during the second day of the three-day Wisconsin Conference convention Thursday at Lawrence Chapel.

The Rev. Huber Klemme, associate executive director, Council for Christian Social Action, New York, brought out the practical problems while Joseph Pierce, faculty member of the Ecumenical Institute, Chicago, talked on the ethical point of view.

Dr. Klemme told the delegates that the Council has recommended a four-fold program: ending or reducing bombardment of North Vietnam by the U. S., the more resolute pursuit of political and economic development of South Vietnam; permitting the Red Cross or a like agency to make inspections of the treatment of prisoners and to arrange for prisoner exchange; and a program of economic and social reconstruction for all of Southeast Asia.

"These steps are not easy to achieve, but they may prove to be more promising than either escalation of bombing or immediate withdrawal," he said.

He also called on local churches to continue their support of anti-poverty and racial justice programs in this country, specifically by working for fair welfare practices and adequate laws; encouraging community organization projects among the poor, protesting discriminatory practices in employment, working for fair housing for Negroes, and bringing people from the ghetto to speak at church meetings.

"The church is not a national group; it is the open inclusive fellowship of those who say with Paul, 'In Christ there is no Jew nor Greek,'" Dr. Klemme concluded.

Looking at the idealistic point of view, Pierce told the audience that contrary to some opinions, the church has been renewed, "and now we are simply in the mopping-up operation stage."

"The movement," he said, "is to accept the Gospel without giving up your intellectual integrity."

Different Light

In looking at the church's role throughout this century, Pierce told his audience that it was only in the '40's after the war that people began to look at religion in a different light.

"The war forced us to look at the absurdity of being a human being," he said. "Since that time we have seen the collapse of the religious canopy — the symbols of the church which have been with us for centuries."

This, he added, was traumatic because under this canopy man could respond to a pattern set up for him a long time ago. "Now he is faced with the fact that there is no eternal truth; that he himself must decide and create a truth," Pierce said.

With the certitude gone, man was finally moved from the theoretical to the practical, from the abstract to the concrete, he added.

"This means, the speaker said, "that the church has, indeed, been renewed and we are simply tying up the loose ends."

The convention, which drew about 700 delegates from the state, ended today.

Policeman Quits Appleton Force Effective June 30

William H. Wolff, 28, an Appleton policeman for seven years, has submitted his resignation to Police Chief Earl O. Wolff. His resignation is effective June 30.

Wolff, 901 Fernmeadow Drive, was appointed to the police department April 1, 1960. He holds the rank of traffic patrolman.

Wolff, a Neenah native, was in the Marine Corps and worked at Kimberly Clark Corp. before becoming a policeman.

In his letter of resignation, Wolff said he believed that his chances for advancement in the department were limited. He reportedly has accepted a job as a truck driver.

Citizens Group to Examine Proposed New Neenah High

NEENAH — A 35-member citizens committee started the knotty task Thursday night of trying to stay ahead of Neenah's swelling school population by examining the need for a new senior high school in the near future and possibly a third junior high school within the next ten years.

The committee was given its charge by the school board last night at Conant Junior High School, a nine-month-old facility which had been recommended in a 1961 citizens study.

The study will focus on the needs of the next ten years, but will also look as far ahead as the 40 to 50 year life of proposed new buildings.

Heading the committee is Frederick Merrill, new president of the First National Bank of Neenah. Vice chairman is Martin Kuetner of the Neenah-Menasha Taxpayers Alliance.

Lease Sought For Winnebago Post Office

Six Acres Would Be Required for Regional Center

OSHKOSH — The Post Office department is seeking to lease 266,000 square feet of land (an area roughly 525 feet square) on the Winnebago County Airport for its regional postal facility.

The department also is seeking a 30-year lease with eight additional five-year renewal options with rent at one-cent per square foot, or, $2,660 per year.

The request was in a letter to the Aviation Committee Thursday.

The committee and postal officials had met in a closed session May 25 and it was revealed Thursday they had offered land at the one-cent per square foot figure but indicated they did not want to be tied down at that figure for the full 70 years proposed by the post office.

Authority to Negotiate

The committee will ask the county board June 27 for authority to negotiate with the post office department on terms for a lease.

No indication has been given as to the size of the proposed building but a cost figure of $2.5 million was discussed by the committee.

Oshkosh serves as a sectional center for the post office and handles mail for 55 other post offices in parts of nine counties.

Improve Service

The post office department has indicated that if a facility is located at the airport, all first class mail would be shipped airmail in and out of Oshkosh and would improve area service by up to three hours.

200 Students Aid School Funds at Kimberly-Clark

College funds of more than 200 Fox Valley students are being bolstered this summer through vacation work in Kimberly-Clark Corp. mills and offices.

The students are sons and daughters of employees, who passed the standard employment physical and tests. All are either college students or June high school graduates enrolled in college. Most have had vacation jobs with the company in past summers.

About twice as many students applied for work as there were job openings, personnel offices reported, even though more were hired this year than last in some locations.

Students are doing almost every kind of job, from typing to working on paper manufacturing machines.

A spokesman said 22 professional students are working on special projects at research and engineering.

Locations where students are employed are Neenah mill, Neenah Paper, Atlas mill, Kimberly mill and the main office.

Menasha Station Proposal to be Studied by Group

MENASHA — A six-man subcommittee will be recommended to study the proposed fire department substation which was promised in conjunction with the annexation request of the George Banta Co.

The committee, consisting of Mayor Kenneth Holmes, Director of Public Works Joseph Kelsenberg, Fire Chief Connie Rippl, City Clerk Harry Kind, Ald. Ernest Kerner and Richard Hansen, chairman of the Civic Building Committee, will be recommended to the council Tuesday.

Holmes told the joint meeting of the Board of Public Works and Civic Building Committee that the substation had not been held out as bait to induce the Banta annexation. He said he would recommend the substation as a condition for any annexation to protect any industries in the area.

Moderate Gain On Wall Street

Market Trims Advance After Reaching Peak

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market held a moderate gain early this afternoon as it tried to post its eighth rise in nine sessions.

Gains outnumbered losses by a ratio of 4 to 3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.82 at 887.08.

The list was brightened by a rotation of interest to various stocks which have been out of the spotlight but were returning on the basis of corporate developments or brokerage house advisories.

At the same time, profits were taken in some of the recent leaders and cash from these sales was put into the fresh entries.

The market was higher at the start, reached a peak after about an hour, then trimmed its gains somewhat.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.4 at 328.5 with industrials up 2.3, rails up .3 and utilities up 1.0.

Among the most actively traded issues, Hunt Foods emerged at the top on volume as it advanced a point. Also active, Gulf & Western gained 2 while Magnavox, Hess Oil and McDonnell Douglas gained a point each.

Varian Associates dropped about 2 points following a company forecast of lower earnings.

Standard Killman, which has been very strong in recent sessions, stumbled more than a point on profit taking. Occidental Petroleum, also off about a point, was another recent favorite which took a tumble.

A recovery of about 2 points by Du Pont helped bolster the list.

Polaroid slipped about 3 points.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

Angry Committeeman Gets Approval for Raise In Pay for Undersheriff

Obviously angered over the six-month delay in a solution to the undersheriff pay-raise dilemma, Appleton Supv. Eugene Kloes won unanimous approval Thursday afternoon by the law enforcement committee for a $60 a month raise for Calvin Spice.

The raise would be retroactive to Jan. 1, when Spice, a former two-term sheriff, took over undersheriff duties for Sheriff Norbert Marx. However, the committee action must go to the county board's executive committee for final action. No date has been set for the next executive session.

Gets Support

Kloes, chairman of the law enforcement unit, demanded committee action Thursday. He drew support from Hortonville Supv. Emil Diestler who said supervisors have been "criticized by the public for too long" on the undersheriff pay issue.

Under the law enforcement committee proposal, Spice, who now draws $577 per month — the lowest pay possible in county pay grade 19 — would be hiked to $637 per month, the minimum under step three of the same pay grade. The maximum is $677.

If the pay plan is adopted by the end of this month, Spice would be entitled to $380 in back pay.

Wants Action

When one of the committee members suggested the executive committee probably would not go for the proposal, Kloes angrily replied, "I don't care. It's going to be resolved in the next executive committee meeting, or else."

In other action Thursday, the law enforcement unit: —Approved sending Sheriff Marx to the Wisconsin Sheriffs and Deputy Sheriffs Association summer conference at Land o' Lakes June 27-28. —Directed Kloes to take steps to speed up the reading of expanded office space for the sheriff's department. Quarters previously used by the State Welfare Department's probation and parole division were allotted to the sheriff's department some time ago.

to prepare a list of six nominees for the new area board.

Based on Population

The committee was asked to base its selection of qualified candidates on a population distribution plan which will give Winnebago and Outagamie County, each two board members, and Calumet and Waupaca County, each one.

Buchanan urged all board presidents to have their nominations for candidates from their areas in his office by Monday. Names are to be submitted with age, education, background, interest, experience in vocational matters and an employment resume in industry and business.

"Be certain that you explain fully to your candidate that it will be an exacting, time-consuming job and get his consent that he is willing and able to serve," Buchanan cautioned.

Clarification of eligible membership on the new area board was given by Lehrmann. An "employer" candidate for two of the positions is one with the ability to hire and fire. Management positions would be included in this category. The State Vocational Board also views eligible "employee" board members to be labor officials who represent "the man who works with his hands."

The Ways and Means of naming the new area board for Vocational, Technical and Adult Education District 12, by July 1, with equitable representation from the four counties took final form Thursday at Einstein Junior High School, Appleton. Presidents of the 25 school districts which make up District 12 registered with general chairman Charles Buchanan, indicating their willingness to serve on a seven-man appointment committee, which will meet Monday. and making a trade and insisted the controversial Mielke property site should be purchased for the new school.

The city purchased the Roeland property for expressway, park and school purposes — setting the stage for a major annexation of more than 140 acres on the southside, including a multi-million dollar power company substation. The annexation would add considerably to Appleton's tax base.

Annexation Underway

Annexation proceedings are underway and the 140 acres will officially become a part of Appleton within 50 days, barring any court action. The Town of Menasha has indicated it will oppose the annexation.

Bethke made the charge that, "The only reason the city purchased the Roeland property was to get seven acres for the expressway." He did not allude to the pending annexation.

"I've been wanting to say something about this for a long time," Bethke declared. He continued: "The city never gave any thought to a school or park when it purchased the Roeland property and now that it doesn't know what to do with it, the city is trying to shove it off on someone else."

At one point, Ald. Orville Strutz (17th) disagreed with Bethke.

Opposes Proposal

While Arthur Jones, Park Board president, opposed giving up Hoover Park and its baseball diamonds he would indicate the Park Board would like to have the 22 acres in the city-owned Roeland tract.

Bethke's outburst came while the Park Board was meeting separately to decide how to proceed in arriving at some recommendation on the park-land exchange.

When the board again convened shortly after with the land acquisition committee, Bethke tempered his statement when a reporter asked for clarification.

Bethke said what he had meant to say was the school had not been considered for a park and boards were not made aware of the areas earmarked for school and park development purposes before the Roeland purchase.

Want Mielke Site

He declared the people in his ward wanted the school on the Mielke site, and in phone calls Thursday, several opposed a Hoover Park location.

City Atty. David Geenen reminded the council recently re-wanted to cooperate with the Ninth Ward residents favoring the Mielke property as a school site.

Jones said the board had the eyes of the School Board $40,000 investment in Hoover Park and could not see giving

It has been agreed that until the cashier system is installed and operating, ramp parkers will be charged 25 cents a day. Close and others agree the ramp should be opened as soon as possible because of the fact Avenue has temporarily removed all parking on the avenue.

New Computer to Arrive Soon At Outagamie Clerk's Office

Outagamie County's new "direct accounting computer" should arrive at the courthouse by late next week, according to members of the county board's public property and insurance committee.

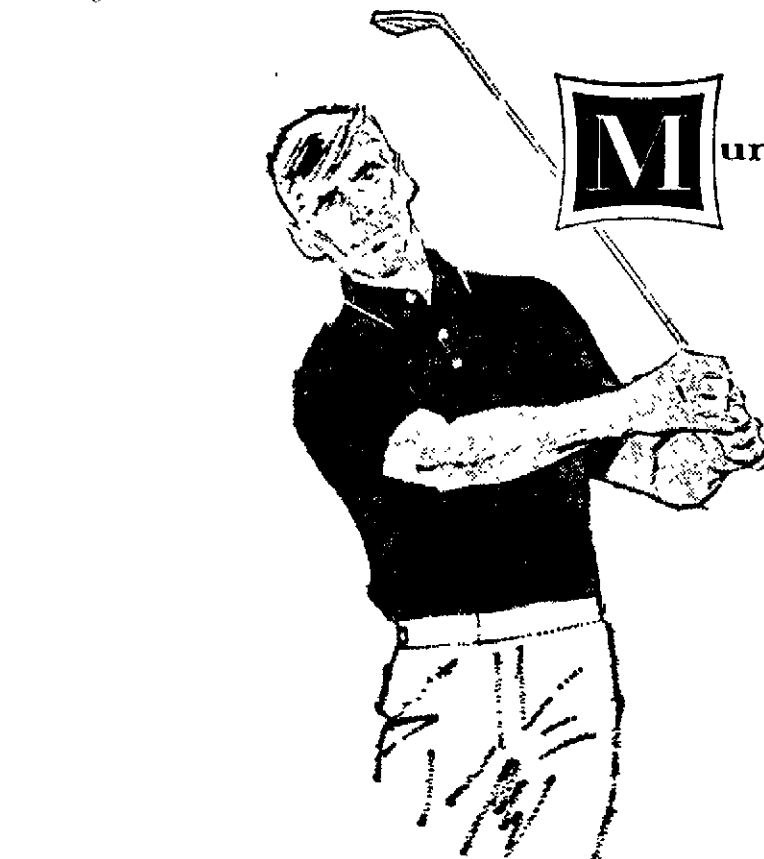

The committee, at a meeting Wednesday, authorized County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeffer and her staff to rearrange the clerk's office to make room for the new $29,000 bookkeeping machine which was recently purchased from The Burroughs Co.

The only changes necessary to accommodate the new machine will be the moving of two large shelf areas on the south side of the office. The present bookkeeping machine will be stored until a specific use is found for it, committee members said.

Appleton Supv. Patrick Mares said his committee has received notice that the new direct accounting computer has been shipped. He said a representative of the Burroughs firm will be in Appleton to help train clerk's office personnel in operation of the new machine.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words often misused: Do not say, "He only ate half of the food." Omit "of." Also, "only" should be placed next to the word "half," which it modifies. Say, "He ate only half the food."

Often mispronounced: Colorado and Nevada. Preferred pronunciation of the stressed syllables in both of these state names rhymes with "add," rather than with "odd."

Often misspelled: Crypt (a vault). Cryptic (mysterious).

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: Mal de mer; seasickness. (Pronounce maal-deh-mair, accent last syllable). "Her voyage was spoiled by recurrent spells of mal de mer."

Wynn Wallops Three Homers in Astrodome As Houston Tops Giants

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Wynn put one and one together and solved the problem of the Houston Astrodome's huge dimensions. His solution surprised everyone, including Wynn.

"I'm going to quit moaning about how big this ballpark is after that exhibition," said veteran slugger Eddie Mathews after watching Wynn become the first player to hit three homers in one game in the Astrodome, with its 340-406-340 dimensions.

It also was the first time Wynn ever hit three homers in a major league game, and they helped Houston to a 6-2 victory over San Francisco Thursday night.

"I knew that eventually it (hitting three homers in one game) would come about," said the 5-foot-9, 168-pound outfielder, "but I didn't expect it to happen there."

Meanwhile, Manager Gene Mauch of Philadelphia had put two and two together and figured he would have to divide the first game pitching chores in a two-night doubleheader against Pittsburgh. But Dick Hall also came up with a surprising solution.

No Relief Needed

With scheduled starter Jim Bunning ill with bronchitis, Mauch decided to start Hall, a 36-year-old relief specialist, and then finish with Dick Farrell. But Hall went the distance to PROVO, Utah (AP) — Charlie Greene tied the world 100-yard dash record and refused to talk about it. Gerry Lindgren humiliated his opposition in the six-mile run and scoffed at the altitude factor.

Those were among surprises Thursday night in the opening round of the 46th annual NCAA Track and Field Championships at Brigham Young University. Another surprise was the decision of two world record-holders not to try for double victories.

Jim Ryun of Kansas, the world mile champion, easily won a qualifying heat and then bypassed the half-mile — an event in which he also has the fastest time on record. Tommie Smith, the 220 and 440 record-holder, decided to run only in the 220. He also had been entered also in the 100 and 440 but

Kansas City Drops Orioles to Fifth With 6-5 Victory

Boston Tips White Sox in 11th; Yankees Blank Washington, 2-0

Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Frank Robinson is seeking to stir up a hornet's nest, but the slumping Baltimore Orioles are still winging their way in the direction of the American League's second division.

The pesky Kansas City A's buzzed around the bases like bees in the eighth inning Thursday night, scoring five times to overcome a 5-0 deficit and then beat the Orioles 6-5 in the 11th on Reggie Jackson's single.

The setback dropped the American League champs two places to fifth. They are only one game ahead of Kansas City,

Foxes Go to Iowa in Search Of Dry Land

Encounter Fifth Postponement in Last Six Days

The Midwest League's two Wisconsin teams, who are running 1-2 in the pennant race (and may be paddling 1-2 in the race if the rain doesn't let up) hope to find some dry land in Iowa today.

Games slated at Appleton and Wisconsin Rapids were the only ones rained out again Thursday night. The Foxes, who were to play Dubuque in a pair, encountered a postponement for the fifth time in the last six days. Wisconsin Rapids had its Burlington twin bill called off.

Tonight, the Foxes begin an 11-game, 8-day road trip with a doubleheader in Burlington. Wisconsin Rapids, which holds a 2½-game lead over Appleton, plays at Quad Cities (Davenport).

The only difference between last night's postponement and previous Foxes' rainouts is that they actually got a game under way. Three Dubuque batters

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, who had said an amateur couldn't win the U.S. Open, set out in pursuit of one today with two strokes to make up and very, very little to say about the non-professionals.

"I had a lot of luck," amateur Marty Fleckman shyly commented Thursday after he had startled an elite field with a three-under-par 67 and a two-stroke lead in the United States Open Golf Championship.

Palmer, the golfing millionaire from Latrobe, Pa., and six more established stars of the game were tightly packed into a compact group at 69.

They included Gary Player,

$50 Million Sports Complex Planned Near Chicago's Loop

Target Date of 1971 or 1972 For Privately Financed Setup

CHICAGO (AP) — A $50-million sports complex a step from Chicago's Loop is being planned with a target date of 1971 or 1972 by the Chicago White Sox.

Privately financed, it would be on 50 acres of air rights land now occupied by the Dearborn Street railroad station just south of the city's center.

Announcement was made Thursday by Arthur C. Allyn, president of the Comisky Park Corp., that his group and the Western Indiana Railroad Co. have formed agreement for the development.

It will consist of a baseball park with seating capacity of about 46,000, an enclosed arena for basketball and hockey with 15,000 seats, and a football and soccer stadium with about 60,000 accommodation.

One more stroke back after the rain-interrupted first round, and even with par at 70 for the 7,015-yard Baltusrol course, were former British open champion Kel Nagle of Australia, 1965 PGA champ Dave Marr, ageless Dutch Harrison, Gardner Dickinson and George Archer.

Posts A 71

Jack Nicklaus, who had stormed over the lush course in record 62 in his last practice round, had just posted his 71 when the torrential downpour—accompanied by thunder and lightning—sent the gallery of 15,787 and a handful of golfers scurrying for cover.

Among the latter was Ben Hogan, 55-year-old winner of four U.S. Open titles, who had just finished the 623 yard 17th—longest hole in Open history—and was one-over par.

After play was resumed 31 minutes later, he took a bogey six on the final hole and finished with a 72.

Fleckman, who learned his golfing lessons at the knee of the great Byron Nelson, was practically unknown among the field of 135 pros and 15 amateurs, and certainly wasn't in Palmer's mind two days ago.

Palmer, the 6-1 favorite going into the tourney, said the field was so good and the course in such fine shape that "any number of players could win it—maybe as many as 50."

"No, I don't think so," Arnie answered. "That's taking it too far. No, not an amateur."

The Odds are still against it.

An amateur has not won the Open since 1933, when Johnny Goodman took it, and he's the only one to do it since the immortal Bobby Jones. And an amateur has not even led since 1954, when Billy Joe Patton took the first-round lead over this same course.

Fleckman, 23, is a native of Port Arthur, Tex., where he works in his father's lumber business. He's a recent graduate of the University of Houston where he won the NCAA championship, and started taking lessons from Nelson two years ago.

He was the first alternate to

'Twins as Good as Any in AL'

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Cal Ermer has been a major league manager only one week, but he's seen enough to be convinced his Minnesota Twins can win the American League pennant. The Twins won five of eight games against contenders Baltimore and Detroit in Ermer's first week.

Based on his initial observations of the Orioles and Tigers, Ermer said Thursday, "I would say, very definitely, that our ball club is as good as any of the top clubs in the American League.

"I don't think I've been around the league long enough to make any predictions on the outcome. But I would say we should be in the thick of it."

The Twins rode Harmon Killebrew's 17th home run—a two-run shot that ignited a four-run seventh inning—to a 6-4 victory over Detroit Thursday. That gave Minnesota a 3-1 edge in the series with the faltering Tigers. The Twins were 2-2 with Baltimore in Ermer's series debut last weekend.

Team to Beat
"Even though Baltimore is not leading the league," he said, "they are the team to beat because they were the champions last year."

"But you've got to beat them all. Detroit is playing good ball and Chicago, of course, looks very good. And Dick Williams sure has Boston playing well."

"The way I see it now, I'd say it looks like a wide open race all the way."

By beating Detroit, the Twins moved two games above .500 for the first time this year.

"I think we're moving now," Ermer said. "Thanks to Harmon Killebrew and our pitching, I think we're ready to make a bid for the top if we can put together a good road trip. It's a very important road trip."

Killebrew credits being moved from the cleanup spot to the No. 3 position in the Twins batting order by Ermer for his batting slump in the four-game Tiger series. He went 6-for-15 with three home runs and eight runs batted in.

"I'm getting better pitches to hit," Killebrew said. He now bats ahead of Tony Oliva. "I also like the third position because it gives me a chance to get up to the plate more in each game."

Walt Williams' double and Ken Berry's single. Manager Eddie Stanky and catcher Smokey Burgess were ejected from the game after disputing a called third strike in the 10th inning.

Mantle Homers

Mantle broke a scoreless duel with a sixth inning homer and set up another run with a double for the Yankees. The home run was Mantle's 13th of the season and 509th of his career. Mel Stottlemyre limited Washington to five hits in evening his record at 6-6. Frank Bertina was the loser.

Killebrew's 17th home run with a mate aboard ignited a four-run rally in the seventh inning for the Twins. The blast erased a 3-2 Detroit lead. Minnesota's Zoila Versalles collected his 1,000th major league hit with a sixth inning single.

the U.S. Walker Cup squad and gained his spot on the team only when Beman turned pro a couple of months ago.

Frank Beard, one of the pre-tourney favorites, took a 73, while Julius Boros, a two-time Open champ and winner of three tourneys this year, finished with a 75 after taking a triple bogey seven on No. 5.

The 5-foot-11, 175-pounder who is an acknowledged power hitter, built his leading round on a string of three straight birdies on the second, third and fourth holes.

Palmer said his "was just one of those rounds—not too good, not too bad. It could have been better. I wasn't driving well." A birdie on the last hole put him under par for the day.

Birdies Last Hole

Casper had about the same reaction, saying he could have shot a 73 or 74. "You have to be happy with a 69 in the Open." He also birdied the last hole and just missed an eagle on a 14 foot putt.

Rodriguez, the pint-sized Puerto Rican with the big punch, turned in a two-over 36, then swept home on a string of birdies, going one under on three of the last four holes.

Wall, 43, had been plagued by arthritic problems, but apparently has them under control. "I played real well on the back," he said. "I had some good chances in the first few holes but couldn't make the putts."

Player had a characteristically solid round, with two birdies and one bogey.

"I hit a lot of good iron shots," he said, "but my putting was unusual. The putts I expected to make, I missed and the ones I expected to miss, I made."

Beman, a two-time U.S. amateur titlist and former British Amateur champ, started with an eagle two on the first hole, dropping in a 220-yard wood shot.

Oshkosh Beats Sheboygan, 6-1, In Legion Game

OSHKOSH — Stu Rickman's run-scoring single sparked a 3-run rally in the sixth inning, as the Oshkosh American Legion team whipped Sheboygan, 6-1, in the teams' opening Southern Division game Thursday.

Sheboygan had held a 1-0 lead for the first five innings after scoring on a walk and two singles in the fourth. Oshkosh tallied three times in the sixth and three more in the eighth.

Left-hander Rick Koch went all the way for the winners, striking out 10 and walking three.

Top Cribbage Hand

The rarest hand in cribbage, the 29-pointer, became reality for Mrs. Janice Robinson, Appleton, recently during a card game at the Monterey Bar.

While playing with another Appleton resident, Marlin Zuehlke, Mrs. Robinson was dealt three fives and the jack of hearts. The five of hearts turned up in the cut.

'Still Know Value of Winning'

Packers Solid in Spite Of Losses, Says Davis

MILWAUKEE (AP)— All-Pro Willie Davis said Thursday he believes the Green Bay Packers can win the National Football League title despite the loss of Paul Hornung and the possible loss of Jim Taylor.

"We still have a core of guys who know the value of winning," said Davis, 32, who has played in 120 consecutive regular season games as a defensive end for the Packers. "The real challenge rests with the players who step into active roles."

Davis was obviously referring to Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski, the high-priced bonus players who spent most of last season on the Green Bay bench.

The two would join Elijah Pitts as the key running backs in a Packers' attack that for years depended on halfback Hornung and fullback Taylor. Hornung has signed with the New Orleans Saints—the team that selected him in the NFL's expansion draft. Taylor played out his option and is now a free agent reportedly ready to sign with New Orleans.

Davis, who is working toward a master's degree in business administration at the University of Chicago, spent Thursday morning at Milwaukee County Stadium running up and down the bleacher steps.

When you play for Vince Lombardi," he explained, "you put on every pound with a certain fear that will be the pound you will have to sweat out."

The annual Appleton Little League candy sale will be held Saturday.

Mid-Vallee League Led by Dale Smith

KAUKAUNA — Dale Smith fired a 42 for low gross in the Mid-Vallee Men's Golf League. Low net was 33 by John Gilson.

Carl Verboom and Luke Verbeten share the American Division lead after six rounds, with 75 points. Leading the National Division is Tom Siebers with 80 points.

Harry Vanden Berg won a prize for closest to the pin and Gilson an award for the longest putt.

Thorson Team Keeps Lead at Riverview

The Vern Thorson team scored 42 points Wednesday to continue leading the Men's Twilight Golf League at the Riverview Country Club. The team total is now 209.

Adams scored 49 points to move into second place, with 187, while McGraw scored the day's high of 50 points to take third place (179).

Low net prize winners, in various classes, were Vince Jones, Bud Stach, Thorson, Paul Truitschel and Don Herrling. All posted 35s.

Attackers Apparently on Way to Hit Village Under Pacification

SAIGON (AP) — An isolated South Vietnamese outpost battled a two-hour attack before dawn today by 500 guerrillas who broke under the pounding of air strikes.

On the bloodied field at dawn the South Vietnamese found 36 Communist dead and 30 weapons. In addition, the defenders took six prisoners from among the guerrillas who spearheaded into the position in the early assault.

The attack took place in coastal Phu Yen Province at a position in the foothills rolling up to the central highlands. The guerrillas were evidently after the adjoining village of Long Tuong, where a team of South Vietnamese pacification workers have recently begun to operate with the villagers.

Casualties Light
The black-clad pacification workers stood with a force of headquarters troops from an army unit to defend the village. A South Vietnamese spokesman said flareships and air support quickly arrived over the harried post, and casualties were light among the defenders.

Programs Go to Assembly

$843 Million Suggested in Addition To Budget for Roads, Other Costs

By DEAN MEADORS
Associated Press Writer

MADISON (AP)—An $843 million budget for highways, conservation and other special programs has been sent to the floor of the Assembly with a recommendation for passage.

The bill, separate from the $1.1 billion main budget signed into law earlier this week, would hike the cost of state government to $1.9 billion over the next two years.

The special budget covers programs financed through the gasoline tax, license plate fees, hunting and fishing license money, and other revenues earmarked by law for specific purposes.

Entrance Fees
Included in the bill is a boost in entrance fees at state parks to $1 a day, or $3 a year. The legislature's Joint Finance Committee recommended the bill for passage 8-4 Thursday night.

The biggest appropriation is $498 million for the State Highway Commission.

The committee devoted close scrutiny to $52 million targeted for the Conservation Department, a foe of the Kellett bill to reorganize state government.

After studying flight logs on use of state-owned aircraft to ferry speakers allegedly opposed to the bill, the committee voted 10-2 for a full investigation

Dodd Admits Reference to Campaign Fund

Senator Again Denies Guilt in Third Day Of Censure Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd acknowledges thanking Lyndon B. Johnson for swelling "my campaign drive" with money the Senate ethics committee says Dodd put to his personal use.

But the white-haired Connecticut Democrat maintained once again Thursday—in the third day of sometimes heated debate on a committee resolution to censure him for financial misconduct—that "testimonial affairs where I live are not considered campaign affairs."

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La.—Dodd's self-appointed defender—planned to make today what he told the Senate would be the closing argument in defense of his colleague.

In Thursday's debate, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., asked Dodd whether he wrote an Aug. 5, 1963 letter to Johnson, then vice president, thanking him for an offer "to come to Connecticut to assist me in my forthcoming campaign."

"Sure I wrote the letter," Dodd said.

Help in Drive
The Dodd letter to Johnson continued: "I wish I could convey to you how enthusiastic everyone is about your visit and how much it will assist me in getting my campaign drive underway."

The ethics committee reported proceeds of "Dodd Day" events attended by Johnson amounted to at least $46,745—part of $116,083 in political funds the committee asserts Dodd used for his personal benefit.

of air travel by all state agencies.

The group held up any money for a third assistant director in the department.

The committee's 7-5 approval of the conservation budget came only after breaking a deadlock on efforts to solve a $1.3 million shortage in the money available for state park operations—estimated at $7 million the next two years.

The solution included a precedent-setting dip into funds from the Outdoor Recreation Act Program for $406,000 and a boost in fees expected to bring in another $480,000.

The daily entrance fee is now fixed at 50 cents. It would be doubled and an annual sticker would cost $3 instead of the present $2.

Sen. George Borg, D-Delavan, joined three Democrats in opposing the over-all budget.

Security Around Kennedys Too Much for Some Irishmen

WOODSTOWN, Ireland (AP) — The Irish press chorused its grumbling.

Every paper and every person one talked to sang praise of Mrs. Kennedy's beauty and youth and her decision to vacation in the land of her husband's ancestors.

Said the Irish Independent: "Already, on her first day among us, Mrs. Kennedy must be well aware of the real affection in which she and hers are held by the Irish people."

The Irish Press commented similarly: "It can only be a matter for hope that the unusual interest in Mrs. Kennedy will be kept in restraint. She has expressed the hope of returning again and again. Let us give her no occasion to change her mind."

Mrs. Kennedy and her children, Caroline, 9, and John, 6, arrived at Woodstown House from New York Thursday to vacation for at least a month.

Thursday was a half holiday in nearby Waterford and Woodstown. When local residents drove to the beach, they found they could not park at their usual spots.

Access to Aqaba, Suez

Congress Feels Israelis Must Have Security to Withdraw

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress overwhelmingly believes Israel should get assurances of national security and access to the Gulf of Aqaba and Suez Canal before it withdraws from captured Arab territory.

An Associated Press survey reached 438 of Congress's 534 members and 364 took without important qualification that view of assurances for Israel.

Among them were 42 senators and 322 House members. Forty-one of those questioned gave qualified responses and 33 declined any expression. None said Israel should withdraw without any assurances.

At the time of the survey, the Soviet Union was pressing in the United Nations for a denunciation of Israel as an aggressor and for a U.N. call for Israeli withdrawal to borders existing before the Mideast hostilities. Congress members were asked:

"Should Israel withdraw from captured Arab territories before her security is guaranteed and she is assured of free access to the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal?"

Often responses were keyed to the premise that future stability in the area demands changes from the pre-war situation.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., said: "We simply can't have another armed truce for the next 20 years as we did the last 20. No, I don't think there should be any withdrawal until Israel and the Arab states have negotiated together toward a lasting agreement to protect the viability of all the nations of that area."

House Member Dies

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Robert Davies, Labor Party member of the House of Commons, died in a hospital today after suffering a heart attack last month. He was 49.

Congress is not for the moment approaching any action or formal expression on the Middle East situation. But congressional sentiment is one factor for the President to consider.

Some who took no stand in the AP survey did so on the ground that Congress ought to stand clear for the time being.

On May 23, a few days before fighting began, President Johnson restated long-standing U.S. policy of supporting the territorial integrity of every nation in the Middle East.

On June 13, after the swift Israeli victory, he reaffirmed the policy in response to a question but spoke in terms widely interpreted as implying the United States would not oppose territorial changes agreed to by the nations involved.

How the policy "will be effectuated will be determined by the events of the days ahead," he said. "It will depend a good deal upon the nations themselves, what they have to say and what their views are, what their proposals are after they have expressed them."

Lewis served under two former superintendents, George E. Watson and Angus B. Rothwell.

Affects Cancellations

Insurance Unit Protests 'Ambiguous' Change

MADISON — The state department of insurance has protested as unworkable and ambiguous a state senate amendment to an industry-approved bill to regulate the cancellation or non-renewal of auto insurance policies.

Robert D. Haase, commissioner of the department, sent his objections to the Assembly committee on insurance and banking which will probably attempt to delete the change in the original bill before the lower house of the Legislature takes up the measure.

Assures Notices
The bill, submitted by Haase after consultations with the industry about the rising volume of complaints about cancellation practices, would assure notices to insurance customers, with reasons given for cancellation or non-renewal, and would prohibit such cancellations on the ground of age, race, color, creed, national origin, ancestry, this year.

As modified by the Senate, the measure would also forbid such cancellation by an insurer "for the alleged reason that the insured is accident-prone or a poor risk, unless the insured's operation of an automobile may endanger the public safety as evidenced by a conviction of a traffic-law violation, or a finding of liability in a civil action arising out of a traffic accident, or a physical, mental or other condition."

Against Intent
Haase wrote that such language would introduce "troublesome and unnecessary ambiguities" into the proposed law, and might actually make the act less restrictive, contrary to the apparent intention of the legislative sponsors of the amendment.

The issue of rights of underwriters and insureds in the matter of cancellations and non-renewals has been one of the most hotly disputed topics in the legislature this year.

Students Say Constitutional Right Violated

Claim Arrest on Conduct Charges Was Harassment

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Robert Zwicker, 20, Appleton, is one of three University of Wisconsin students who have filed suit against Milwaukee police chief and Milwaukee County district attorney.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court charges that the students' constitutional rights were violated during an antiwar demonstration.

The two other plaintiffs are Robert A. Stickgold, 21, and Charles O. Sowerwine, Jr., 23, both of Madison.

The students claim their constitutional rights of free speech and assembly were violated when they and eight other persons were arrested on disorderly conduct charges at an Army induction center in Milwaukee during a May 18 protest against the Vietnamese war.

The suit demands that Police Chief Harold Brier and District Atty. Hugh R. O'Connell be restrained from enforcement of the state's disorderly conduct law if enforcement is used for what the students called intimidation and harassment.

Grant Okay To Kaukauna Renewal Plan

KAUKAUNA — Permission has been received by the health and recreation committee of the common council from the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers allowing the city to begin a beautification program on the banks of the Fox River.

The committee is working with a 20-man citizen's group, appointed by Mayor Gilbert Anderson, and five contractors who have volunteered to provide men and machinery to assist in the project. Committees will meet to plan the project at a later date.

The recreation committee voted Wednesday to recommend to the board of public works, the improvement of the upper road behind the swimming pool and to the legislative committee, the official designation of a city forester with an explanation of which governmental unit would have jurisdiction over the forest.

Also recommended was the hiring of Carlton Mann as a member of the park department at a starting salary of $5,000 per year with this to be raised to $5,100 after a 60-day probationary period.

The park superintendent was authorized to expend $600 for removal of dead elm trees and in a tree trimming program. Plans were made to view park department storeroom and garage areas to ascertain repairs needed before winter.

Richard Lamers of Kimberly

Dairies Agent Sees Milk Market Pools As Unconstitutional

Federal milk market pools are both unconstitutional and discriminatory, a Fox Cities dairy plant operator testified at the recent market hearings in Milwaukee.

Richard Lamers of Lamers Dairy, Kimberly, represented nine handlers and about 60 producers. He said current milk order regulations are contrary to the 5th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

Because of the size and scope of smaller dairy plants they are unable to benefit from the market pool to which they are required to contribute on behalf of their producers.

For this reason, Lamers said, those producers should receive payments which are going to others. They are entitled to the fair return for their enterprise as guaranteed by the 5th Amendment.

Sell Surpluses

He said of necessity the smaller independent dairies handle only enough Class I milk for their daily retailed bottled milk market. Any surplus must be sold to a cheese factory which derives a further profit.

According to the April report of the Northeastern Wisconsin Federal Milk Market Order 45 individual handlers would be required to utilize more than 44 per cent of the Class I milk to merit pool payments. The larger processors have facilities to convert any surplus into manufactured dairy products and "purchase milk at low Class II prices and pay for this milk at a supposedly full milk market level," he contended.

Lamers claimed producer representatives would contend that those with a capacity to produce for the full milk market had a right to share in it. However, he said, "with what justification can they tell a producer he has a right to produce milk for a market which is already full," Lamers

Urbanization Trend Alters Scope of Activity by SCS

Outagamie Agency Once Limited To Farm Programs Now Planning Recreation, Drainage Projects

The growth of urban centers in Outagamie County has altered the scope of activity by the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) which was once dominated by a rural-agricultural program.

Vernon Geiger, soil conservationist since the agency began in the county after World War II, offered indications of the change in his annual report this week.

While continuing its work with farmland owners the agency helped in developing recreational lakes, golf courses, business building sites and a stock car race track. It prepared seven non-farm basic plans.

For the first time the SCS began working with the Bureau of Indian Affairs in developing Indian tribal lands. Suggestions were outlined for land-use programs owned by the Oneidas.

Land-Use Planning

Several townships have requested assistance in developing land use planning. Soil surveys were completed by the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission for the cities who belong to the commission plus the Towns of Buchanan and Grand Chute.

District supervisors are presently engaged in broad area resource planning for the Great Lakes Economic Development Commission.

The SCS worked with other agricultural agencies in preparing a conservation tour for 70 homemaker club members in the county.

Goals this past year were exceeded in every activity, Geiger reported. There were 108 miles of construction completed.

Land use practices in those miles were diversions, surface drainage, streambank stabilization, tiling, deep ditching and waterways.

Pumping Plants

In addition landowners installed two pumping plants, developed 423 acres of wildlife land, 164 acres of contour striping and 22 structures. There were 261 cooperating landowners. Tiling and surface drainage attracted most attention.

Three group drainage jobs were completed. Each required

Farm Assets Up 7 Per Cent Record Increase Also Reported On Indebtedness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assets owned by farmers in excess of debts totaled a record high $227.5 billion or nearly seven per cent more on Jan. 1 than a year earlier.

An Agriculture Department economic report showed today that farm assets — including land, buildings, machinery, livestock and the like — totaled $273.3 billion at the beginning of this year compared with $255 billion a year earlier.

Farm debts as of Jan. 1, 1967 amounted to $45.8 billion. Debts last year increased a record $4.7 billion.

Farm real estate constituted the major part of agricultural assets, totaling $184.2 billion, an increase of $13.1 billion during 1966. Debts pending against farm real estate totaled $23.5 billion.

Woodlawn 4-H Club Prepares for Fair

The Woodlawn 4-H Club received entry blanks for their county fair projects at the June meeting at the Town of Grand Chute Hall. Tickets for the tractor pulling contest sponsored by the Outagamie Soil and Water Improvement Association during the fair.

Menasha Priest Near Saigon

Wanted: Dairy Herd

"How do we get 150 cows to Vietnam?"

Chaplain Capt. Luke Krizenesky, O.F.M. Capuchin, a native of Menasha, sent this challenge to dairy state farmers in a letter to the Post-Crescent recently.

Father Krizenesky is only about 13 miles north of Saigon and a little to the east, in a place where "Charlie," as he calls the Viet Cong, likes to sneak into the ammunition dump and blow it up.

Earlier this year Father Krizenesky worked for a month with the wounded in the hospital in Vung Tau. He reports that the doctors and nurses there also are working with the civilians.

One of the doctors got the bright idea of starting a dairy, and now all the dairy equipment has been donated from the states. But the problem that remains is the procurement of the 150 needed cows.

Tax Deductible

Father thinks it should be a simple thing for Wisconsin farmers to donate some of the needed cows, and he reminds them that it would be a tax-deductible donation. He also suggests that some dairy or farm cooperative might like to take on this project.

Seeds are needed also, the chaplain writes, and he expresses a hope that he will hear from his fellow natives of the dairy state through the Office of the Group Chaplain, Hq. 29th General Support Group, APO San Francisco, 96491.

Father Krizenesky reports that packages take about two months to arrive, and since the weather is usually hot and damp, perishable foods should not be sent. Hard candy, canned baby food (for children as well as the wounded who are not able to eat solid food) are ideal.

The chaplain also said that all items are wrapped from the mission prior to distribution so that they are kept off of the black market.

Area 4-H Club Tours Planned In Outagamie

Area 4-H club tours are planned in Outagamie County next week, according to Club Agent William Shaw.

The Ellington 4-H Club will be host at 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Ellington Town Hall in Stephenville. The Valley 4-H Club will be host at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Henry Joosten residence north of the intersection of County Trunk N and U.S. 41.

The Wild Grove 4-H Club will be host at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Norman Maass farm on County Trunk C south of Seymour.

Alfalfa Weevil Threat Still 2-3 Years Away, Says UW Agronomist

SEYMOUR — Central Wisconsin farmers have two or three years before the expected onslaught of alfalfa weevils make their appearance felt, predicted Charles Krueger, University of Wisconsin extension agronomist, during an alfalfa test plot meeting here last Friday afternoon.

The plot with 17 varieties was developed on the Lester Krahn farm south of here by Russell Luckow, county agricultural agent. About 50 farmers attended.

Krueger said the weevil was first spotted in the state two years ago in Kenosha County. It survived the winter and reappeared this spring. He said it usually takes two or three years after the weevils are first spotted for them to develop into the menace they have in portions of Ohio and Indiana. They can strip an alfalfa field of its leaves in two days, he explained.

Chemical control has proved too expensive and incomplete, he said. The U.S. Department of Agriculture, meanwhile, is trying to develop a weevil resistant alfalfa variety.

If the weevil should become a problem before answers are found, Krueger suggested heavy deposits of nitrogen on grasses may be a temporary answer.

He compared the countless varieties of alfalfa seed available today to the few leaders which carried the market in the 1940's.

Vernal and Ranger were soon joined by Dupuis and Warrior but tests of severe winters and wilting put most emphasis on the resistant Vernal type.

Krueger predicted the Saranac variety was one to watch. Not much of its seed is on market yet because most is used in New York state where it was developed. Based on tests at University of Wisconsin experimental farm test plots it appears to be outyielding the Vernal variety.

Comply With Standards
Commercial firms are developing varieties based on specifications from the university agricultural schools. The time is coming when the university may recommend some of them if they comply with its standards, he predicted.

Krueger explained that the university can not economically produce alfalfa seed so seed is shipped to California and grown from the same root systems for six years because of the ideal growing weather. The seeds are shipped to Wisconsin. The practice has netted state farmers a considerable saving.

He urged farmers not to wait for the blossom stage in view of the current humid weather trend. For low moisture silage the crop should be cut earlier. The first crop lends itself best if ensiled at 40-60 per cent moisture, he advised.

Donates Money For Film for European Trip

SEYMOUR — The Woodland Hustlers 4-H Club voted to donate $5 to Ron Buchman for film to be used on his agricultural trip to Europe this summer.

Entry blanks for the county fair are due with Mrs. Walter Jurgens, club leader, by Tuesday. Finished leathercraft projects are due at the county extension office in Appleton by June 30. A committee was named for the fair booth.

The club is planning a ball game at Rick-Ledge Park June 25. Its next meeting will be at the fairgrounds in Seymour. Its float was entered in parades at Seymour and Green Bay recently.

A goal of $63,000 in private funds to supplement public expenditures for the center has been set. The total budget, expected to be presented to the regents of the University of Wisconsin next month by Dean Glenn Pound of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, will be about $120,000.

Because of the extensive use of irrigation in the central sand area of the state, the need for field research work greatly exceeds the present facilities at the Hancock station.

A Citizens Committee for the fund collection goal was set up recently under the chairman of Joseph R. Hartz, a Stevens Point banker.

Growers in the area have been asked to contribute at the rate of 20 cents per acre over a two-year period, or $20 per well over a period of two years.

FHA Offers Recreation, Rent Loans

The Farmers Home Administration has received new authorization to make loans on rural rental property and recreation enterprises, according to James Suehring, manager for the Winnebago-Outagamie County office in Appleton.

Persons who want to develop rental facilities property, particularly in the smaller communities in the counties, may now obtain loans for them from his office.

Loans also are available to establish recreation businesses

New Methods Find Nutrient Source in Lakes

Research at UW Offers Results to Water Chemists

MADISON — Past problems in determining sources of nitrogen and phosphorus in lakes containing excessive quantities of these substances may be solved by application of new techniques, a University of Wisconsin water chemist pointed out Thursday.

Pinpointing sources of excessive amounts of nutrients in natural waters has been difficult, Prof. G. Fred Lee, director of the UW water chemistry program, explained.

Abnormally great amounts of nitrogen and phosphorus cause increased growth of water plants, which in turn leads to algae and weed nuisances in these eutrophic lakes. The term "eutrophic" describes lakes containing overloads of nutrients.

New applications of chemicals and chemical principles show promise of providing water chemists with more accurate results when testing for nitrogen and phosphorus compounds, Lee said at the International Symposium on Eutrophication in Madison. The techniques may provide a solid footing for new programs being initiated to study eutrophication, he explained, especially to pinpoint sources of nutrients.

queried, "and which volume of milk could not possibly be sold in that market?"

This is only possible by taking away the market from which the local producer is already filling the need, he said.

Retain Premiums

Before federal orders local handlers paid premiums over and above market prices, but since then his bottle milk cost has increased and monies required by the orders often given to his competition. Meanwhile premium prices are required to obtain or retain his supply.

Lamers claimed the size of the disadvantage was evidenced by the dwindling number of smaller handlers. Even farmers are forced to support producers who have infringed on their seniority. High Class I handlers "ride" the pools by shifting producers to gain price advantage.

The cure lies in returning to applying the new techniques should help other investigators avoid certain pitfalls, Lee said. One such example is detecting a rich source of phosphorus, manure spread on frozen ground, which flows into streams and lakes only during the spring runoff. This lasts about one week. After the runoff has stopped, the source can no longer be demonstrated, although the excess phosphorus in lakes can be detected, Lee pointed out.

the 5th Amendment and enacting individual handler pools, which, he claimed, would adjust the supply to demand, simplify administration.

He suggested temporary legislation for a three-five year period for greater enforcement of Grade A regulations. No handler could drop producers for pricing purposes. They could leave the market freely or be shut off for not complying with standards.

Force Situation

Manufacturing cooperatives and co-op groups, he claimed, push Class I prices higher and are "forcing the fluid milk industry into the same position the butter industry is in today. Manufactured powder products also are gaining greater price advantages.

He suggested a gradual closer alignment of Class I and Class II prices over a year or two to prevent a radical raise in consumer prices. He further suggested shifting the greater portion of milk price from the fat to the solids.

Federal orders should be left to economic administration within market areas; the USDA must rewrite marketing orders to conform to the 5th Amendment; Court cases regarding individual handler pools and upholding marketwide pools must be invalidated because they violate the 5th Amendment.

If the USDA chooses not to uphold the Constitution, producers and their handlers would have the right to "Challenge and even sue for the recovery of properties taken through the administration of unconstitutional legislation plus costs and interest," he asserted.

Lamers also represented Hanson Dairy, Green Bay; Seegers Dairy, Merrill; Hietpas Dairy, Appleton; Crystal Fountain Dairy, Clintonville; Rose Hill Dairy, Kaukauna; Utschig Dairy, Appleton, and Carnival Guernsey Dairy, Algoma.

Leaders Plan Area Visits

Calumet 4-H Group Invited to Waldo, Camp Tapawingo

CHILTON — Calumet County junior 4-H leaders have been invited to attend association meetings in two surrounding counties this month. Sheboygan County's group is meeting Monday at their farm east of Waldo. Manitowoc County group meets Wednesday, June 28, at Camp Tapawingo.

The members will have an opportunity for a get together and exchange ideas about their local club programs and county activities.

Junior leaders will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Hilbert High School. After a fairly short business meeting the members will watch the coronation of the Calumet County Dairy Queen at the Civic Park.

Officers and directors of the adult 4-H Leaders Council will meet at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, at the courthouse. Summer events will be reviewed and plans and arrangements changed where necessary.

Areas for business will be state and county fair, record books and achievement day program, summer 4-H camp, calf rally, leaders barbecue, and the Canadian exchange and citizenship short course programs.

Calumet County will send two 4-H teams to Wausau Wednesday for the Northeast District Dairy Judging Contest. The teams and other 4-H members trying out for the team have held several practice sessions this spring. Coach for the teams is Leonard Seybold from Forest Junction.

Junior team members will be Rodney Gasch, Joe Kiefer, Debbie Krueger, and Keith Scholz. Members on the senior team are Joe Brantmeier, James Coffeen, Gordon Gasch, and Connie Wink.

About 70 Streambank and 30 level ditching projects have been started under the program. Photographing one of the level ditches owned by Ed Schrage are Joe Rickert, left, manager of the Outagamie ASCS office, and Bert Weyenberg, chairman of the county committee. Committeemen Weldon Huss and John Reimer accompanied them. Chauffeurs were John Carpenter and John Gliniecki from Shiocton. Next on top is the farm of Mrs. Alvina Koepeke from whom the county purchased land for a public access. Second row, left, shows a tall streambank with more work needed at the far end of land owned by LeRoy and Willard Winterfeldt. Next is one of numerous examples of where work is needed to halt erosion of the shoreline. The Winterfeldt brothers have done considerable work on their shorelands. At the end of a hairpin curve is this solution-problem example. More stone will be added to finish this project (far right) on land owned by Wesley Poole. (Post-Crescent Photos by Pat Duffey)

Little Timberstand Work

While participation in the program has been growing and 38,500 feet of shoreline protected the trip down river indicated much more work lies ahead.

Timberstand improvement was being practice on only one site along the entire stretch of river frontage.

With assistance from a Wisconsin Conservation Department forester trees were marked for harvest and those remaining given growing room. Trees about to bend and eventually sink into the river along the shore were cut.

Water Level

Some of the areas are inaccessible except over the ice in winter so rock is dumped along the shoreline after the ice surface is cleared in the area. In some instances the formation settled leaving a portion of the job near the top exposed. For appearance sake it probably will be covered with rock.

Near Leeman the water level had dropped considerably from its earlier level. During dry summer conditions it is possible to cross the river on foot via a sandbar.

While the presence of some trees is seen as a boon to fishermen a number exist with sandbars opposite them and almost block channels.

About a dozen farmers have been participating in the program since it was put on a special status. The practice had always been among those available in the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) but other projects within ACP attracted the money.

Previously cost sharing funds also were allotted for level ditching usually to those who agreed to stabilize part of their riverbanks, but this has been discontinued as a special practice. It remains as part of the ACP.

Police Claim Sleeping Motorist Was Abusive When Roused From Rest

A 33-year-old rural Appleton motorist, whom police said became abusive after they found him sleeping in his car early Wednesday, pleaded innocent of disorderly conduct when he was brought into Outagamie County Court Branch 2 about four hours later.

Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for Dec. 14 for Gerald C. White, route 2, Appleton, and ordered bond of $100.

Outagamie County police said they found White's car in a ditch at County Trunk JJ and U. S. 41 about 6:15 a.m. He allegedly became abusive when police investigated.

White's attorney indicated he probably will ask to present the case to a six-man jury.

Milwaukee Firm Gets Mortgage Foreclosure Against Club Terrace

OSHKOSH — A mortgage foreclosure amounting to $393,194 against Club Terrace, Inc., has been awarded to Security Savings and Loan Association, Milwaukee, by Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane.

The mortgage, issued July 16, 1964, covers the Club Terrace Motor Inn, 3913 W. Prospect Ave. It includes the new 50-unit motel and restaurant and all furnishings, equipment and fixtures. Foreclosure proceedings were started Feb. 28, 1966.

Under the terms of the judgment, Club Terrace must pay the full amount within six months or the loan company will take possession of the property.

New Programs Announced For WAPL-FM

Series on Expo 67, Drama Programs on Acting, Area Theater

"Summer Sound: Education" on WAPL-FM, a two-hour non-commercial public service program shows next week, according to Mary Ellen Ducklow, WAPL-FM director.

"Expo 67" will be heard at 10:30 a.m. Tuesdays beginning June 20.

This is a series of 13 quarter-hour segments on the Montreal exposition, backgrounding the theme "Man and His World." It covers Expo costs, admissions, lodgings, meals, transportation, national pavilions, restaurants, amusement areas and the World Festival of the Performing Arts.

Series on Drama

"The Golden Age of American Acting" will be heard at 10:30 a.m. Thursdays.

Through dramatizations, these 15-minute programs simulate the voices and acting techniques of world famous comedians, tragedians and romantic actors of the late 19th century in America. The series is programmed to supplement the 10 a.m. Mondays, locally-produced show "Curtain Up."

Don Jones

This series opens its second season Monday with an appearance by Don Jones, Attic Theatre director.

The second Curtain Up guest scheduled for June 26, will be Mary Hall representing the new summer theater company now in its second season in Seymour. The Seymour players open with the comedy "Never Too Late" later this month.

"Man and His World" will be heard at 11:30 a.m. Thursdays. Narrator Elspeth Chisholm will talk about the Expo theme based upon the Saint-Exupery comment that "To be a man is to feel that through one's own contribution one helps to build a better world."

Subjects to be explored are "man the explorer," "man the producer," "man the creator," "man in the community" and "man the provider."

Among the interviewees will be Moïse Saidie, the young Israeli-born architect who conceived Habitat 67, the revolutionary prefabricated housing complex which Life magazine calls the most controversial construction at Expo.

Union Official to Go to National Convention

Eugene Van Ryzin, president of Local 5521 of the Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO, will attend the union's convention June 19 in Kansas City, Mo.

Van Ryzin will represent Wisconsin Telephone Co. plant and traffic department employees in Appleton, Menasha, Neenah, Little Chute, Kaukauna, Waupaca, New London and Stevens Point.

Roland Choudoir, Seated, and Don L. Myers, both of Appleton, review the program for the 55th State Pipe Trades Convention to be held here this weekend. State Supreme Court Judge-Elect Robert Hansen of Milwaukee will address convention delegates at the Terrace Motor Inn Saturday night. Choudoir is convention chairman. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Cannery Tackles Problem

Sewage Treatment Unit Nears Total Volume

Appleton's sewage treatment plant—modernized and expanded by a $1.5-million addition put into operation in 1964—is operating at near capacity.

And one of the major contributors of sewage wastes treated at the plant is the Stokley Van Camp cannery on the city's far west side, the city council was told Wednesday night.

Discusses Plant

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), chairman of the street-sanitation committee, was talking about future capital improvements when the subject of the treatment plant came into the discussion.

It was indicated Stokley's did not have the most waste volume but accounted for 50 per cent of the facility's oxygen treatment required to break down bacteria.

Pointer said it might be necessary to have the council adopt an ordinance requiring some firms to install primary treatment facilities at their plants to break down the content and ease the load on the municipal treatment plant—thus delaying the need for constructing future additions.

"However, we don't want to use any high pressure which would chase an industry out of our area," Pointer declared.

City officials today explained they have been aware of the heavy Stokley load over the past year and that company officials have been "most cooperative."

Officials Meet

Public Works Director Frank Keuler said there have been meetings with company officials, some recently, to help solve mutual problems.

Keuler said the firm has taken some steps to alleviate the heavy treatment load, adding clarifiers to reduce silt.

Stokley's long-range plans do call for installations at the cannery to break down the

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A five-time high school dropout was one of the honor graduates at Harvard University when he received a degree in law and was among the top students selected to give a valedictory.

Joseph N. Sorrentino, 30, of Brooklyn, N.Y., said after five losing tries at high school, a less than honorable discharge from the Marines, and a series of lost jobs in industry, he decided at 20 to finish high school, then completed college, and rejoined the Marines to gain an honorable discharge.

"On this day I am a graduate of a great university, but it has been a long journey to this honor and not what social scientists would have predicted 11 years ago," he told the 15,000 persons attending commencement Thursday.

More ponds were constructed in the district than in any previous year. The 34 completed ponds were of three varieties. Some were constructed in good spring areas and are being planted to trout. Others have been constructed as deep warm water ponds. They require a surface runoff and are stocked with bass or other species. Shallow wildlife ponds are constructed in impounded areas.

During the year 61 landowners have signed agreements to become district cooperators, more than in any previous year. On the agricultural side 25 farms were planned and five existing farm plans were revised.

Services were provided to 1,648 landowners in the district by the SCS. There were 134 people involved in group drainage who received assistance.

In other activities the SCS: Had 81 contestants in its annual district conservation speaking contest.

USDA to Finance Study on Herbicide Movement in Soil

How herbicides move over and through soils will be studied by soil scientists at the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station, Raleigh, under a $77,458 contract with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Understanding this herbicide movement is necessary before their fate in soils can be determined. The study should also provide a basis for predicting how much herbicide will reach water supplies next to a treated area. USDA's Agricultural Research Service will sponsor the 3½ year study.

Scientists will investigate the relationships between herbicide properties, soil properties, and climatic conditions. A suitable watershed with detailed information on cropping history, fertilizer treatments, soil properties, climatic conditions, and hydrological data will be used in the study.

WDA Tightened Weights, Tests At 775 Plants Buying Milk

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture is totaling up 1966 results for the stepped up program to assure farmers accurate weights and tests from the 775 dairy plants buying milk.

"This increased effort has yielded a profit for both the dairy farmer and the dairy plant," states C. L. Jackson, chief of the department's Dairy, Food and Trade Division.

Revised Rule
"Butterfat testing is telling a truer story," Jackson continues. "Our butterfat plant audits show it, our retest of composite samples show it, and the duplicate sample program is working out some problems testers may have with their equipment and techniques."

One item on the asset side of the ledger for 1966 was the adoption of the revised milk sampling rule. It strengthened the collection, care and testing of samples. The section on test records also was revised.

"We feel this new regulation will help both the farmer and the dairy plant," Jackson adds. Three WDA district butterfat testing laboratories are now in operation. These laboratories have increased the capacity for retesting composite samples of plants.

Another new innovation in 1966 was making available to licensed testers "split" samples prepared by district laboratory technicians. "We can get a good check on a tester's equipment and techniques by comparing his test results with our controlled test," he says.

Test Accuracy
Department fieldmen have reported that most dairy plants welcomed the increased attention to test accuracy. They found it beneficial in reaffirming the accuracy of the work in their plant and also giving assurance that competitive plants are being required to live up to the same high standards.

"While most plants are run honestly and give top priority to their testing and weighing program, we are still finding a few cases where some patrons are regularly tested a point or two high, and another patron will be regularly tested a point or two low. Three dairy plants were prosecuted in 1966, for illegal testing practices.

"The department is now geared to an all-out effort to halt the practice of unfair weights and tests and we are adding whatever additional resources necessary to enforce the laws and regulations areas.

"To do this, we need the cooperation of the farmer, the plant and the industry."

45 Teachers Register For 22nd Workshop at Eagle River Tree Camp

Forty-five teachers registered Sunday for the 22nd annual summer workshop, sponsored by the state universities, at Trees for Tomorrow Camp, Eagle River, one of the oldest, continuing resource education workshops in the country. Three undergraduate credits can be earned at each 2½ week session, or six at both. Second session runs from June 28-July 15.

Because many teachers seek additional experience in the expanding field of resource education, men and women teachers in elementary, junior and senior high schools, as well as undergraduates are eligible to enroll. Outdoor field work is combined with academic studies.

Aquatic biology, history of resource policy development, conservation of natural resources, and nature studies are courses offered.

Potato Graded Shipments Drop

Hot Summer in 1966 Season Curtails Marketing

Wisconsin graded fruit and vegetable shipments were down 2,000 carlots for the 1966-67 season according to figures released by Marlon Schwier, commodity marketing supervisor of the State Department of Agriculture.

Schwier says potatoes caused most of the season's drop. Because of extremely hot weather in August, marketing movement was curtailed and shipping point work never regained the loss in later months.

A heavy grade-out caused grower reluctance to put up No. 1 officially graded packs. This meant less potatoes inspected and less potatoes for shipment.

The cranberry industry, the second largest user of the state's grading and inspection program, shipped 856 carlots or about 85 per cent of all products through inspection points. This represents an increase of 63 cars over the previous year.

Onions were the only crop to significantly increase in the inspection program. This volume more than doubled in a one year period.

Wages to Hired Farm Workers Declines in Mechanization Shift

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wages to hired workers on the nation's farms are declining from a peak of $2.93 billion in 1963.

They totaled $2.79 billion last year, a decline of about five percent from 1963. This decline reflected replacement of hand labor by mechanization.

struck Tami in the head.
Ulrich found her head pinned to the sidewalk by the limb. She was taken to Mercy Hospital, where she was pronounced dead. Winnebago County Cor-instantly of a broken neck and jaw and skull fractures.

Winnebago County Airport, Oshkosh, reported that heavy winds, gusting up to 60 miles per hour, moved in from the west without warning about 6:30 p.m. The storm lasted only several minutes, but it tore down many branches in the north end of the city where the girl lived and in the northwest part of the county.

Most of the Fox Valley area was placed under tornado watch during the afternoon and evening. A funnel cloud was reported by Bob Drinkard and Fred Strobel of Maxair, Inc. at the Outagamie County Airport about 6:30 p.m.

'Didn't Touch'
Drinkard told The Post-Crescent that he and Strobel saw what was "definitely a funnel cloud, but it didn't touch ground." The high cloud was in sight for about two to three minutes to the northeast. Drinkard estimated it was five miles from the airport.

The men notified the weather bureau.
Appleton was struck with a series of thunderstorms in the late afternoon. A storm about 5 p.m. hit only the south side, while a 6:30 p.m. shower which covered the entire city brought hail to the south side, with none reported on the north side.

A third storm at 7:30 p.m. was the heaviest and longest. A fourth downpour at about 10:30 p.m. finished the evening's severe weather.

A total of 1.51 inches of rain for Thursday was recorded by the Appleton weather station of the Wisconsin Michigan Power
Co. Only .01 inch was reported from midnight on this morning, but one forecast predicted good chances of rain between 2 and 6 p.m. today.

The flood stage was reached in low-lying areas bordering the Wolf River near New London, where the water level has hit seven feet. Some farmland has been flooded. Observers reported rain from about 10 p.m.
Thursday to 4 a.m. today.

Temporary Ponds
Some Appleton street intersections formed temporary ponds as the rains came fast and furiously. City workmen put up a barricade on E. Calumet

Appletor Director of Public

The only U.S. military instal-

base, which American pilots in Europe use at least once a year to sharpen their bombing and shooting skills. Most of Europe is too densely populated for that kind of training.

Wheelus, which the U.S. Air Force has used for more than 19 years, is considered ideal for bombing and rocketry practice because it is in a country of vast desert stretches where the population is small and scattered.
Also, the weather allows year-

It is the last base occupied by the United States in North Afri-

Substitute Measure Approved

Committee Refuses to Okay 21 Beer Age, Implied Consent

MADISON (AP)—The Assembly Highways Committee voted unanimously today to reject Gov. Warren P. Knowles' highway safety package and recommended a drastically rewritten substitute version.

The version reported out of committee on a 12-0 vote eliminated the governor's call for a uniform 21-year-old beer drinking age and his implied consent provision requiring intoxication tests for suspected drunken drivers.

"I think the substitute guts the bill proposed by the governor for a total highway program," said Arvid Sather, Knowles' legal adviser who drafted the measure.

as well as the Middle East crisis
if they talk during Kosygin's United Nations trip.
U.S. officials said it was in-together without touching on several issues, particularly the Vietnamese conflict.

The White House said Thursday the President "would, of course, be glad to see" the Soviet premier if Kosygin wants to see the President.

But diplomats and American officials consider at least one talk between the two to be a certainty—unless Kosygin's conduct at an expected U.N. General Assembly session called for by Moscow is so violent against Israel and the United States that the resulting atmosphere would make a top-level talk impossible.

American diplomats who know Kosygin, however, say he is not likely to go to such extremes.

Bitter Campaign
Former Soviet Premier Nikita
Khrushchev attended a General Assembly session in 1960 and waged a bitter campaign against the United States, pounding the desk with his shoe.
There was no talk with President Dwight D. Eisenhower that time.

Kosygin's trip to the United Nations is regarded here as a dramatic gesture to convince the Arab states the Soviet Union is going all the way in its support for them and its opposition to Israeli conquests in last week's war.

U.S. officials expect angry attacks on the U.S. role in the Middle East as Kosygin and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei
A. Gromyko seek to consolidate Soviet influence in the Arab world and turn Arab sentiment into bitter anti-Americanism.

But they expect Kosygin will try to keep the damage to direct U.S.-Soviet relations limited.

The Soviet foreign office announced Thursday Kosygin's trip to New York a few hours before he was scheduled to leave Moscow with an itinerary that includes a Paris conference with French President Charles de Gaulle.

Larsen Farms Location Gets Early Approval

Senate Unlikely To Concur With Lower House

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Rogers Bill to move the campus site of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay to the west side Larsen Farms location was given preliminary approval Thursday evening in a 48-42 State Assembly vote.

The action came after nearly three hours of debate. Green Bay lawmakers, who led the fight to block approval of the bill, managed through procedural moves to block a final vote. It was to be brought up again today, when the Green Bay forces plan to move for reconsideration of the bill, throwing any final action on the measure into next week.

When the bill does pass the Assembly, it will be forwarded to the Senate — where it is considered doomed. Due to the fast-ending session, however, action on it in the upper house cannot be expected before next fall.

The bill, offered by Assemblyman William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, split both Assembly won-party caucuses deeply and won passage only after Assembly
Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, descended from the podium and returned to the floor for the first time this session to fight for the measure.

Split With Alfonsi
Froehlich chose the bill for the first instance in which he has addressed the Assembly in this session — and the Rogers Bill proved to be the first which divided him from powerful Republican Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi this year.

Alfonsi fought against the bill, saying that only a court should decide if irregularities were involved in the Green Bay university site selection process.

Froehlich appealed for passage of the bill which he has been pushing for five months, using the broad powers of the speakership.

"The site selection committee did a rough-shod job of doing their job (in picking the Shore-wood site) and that is why we are here today," Froehlich said.

If a legislatively-created committee makes a mistake then "We have a responsibility to make a change," he added.

Froehlich, Rogers and Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, led the fight to pass the

Hilbert Board Okays $10,327 Street Contract

Menasha Firm Is Low Bidder for Seal-Coating Work

HILBERT — Major street improvements were given the go-ahead by the village board Tuesday with the awarding of a $10,327 contract to Driveway Services, Menasha.

Though bids were requested of five firms, the only other quotation was given by Reliance Construction Co., Sheboygan, for $14,936.

The bid of William Krepeline, Hilbert, was accepted for 2,000 yards of crushed rock at $2.44 a yard. Officials accepted the bid over one from a Brillion firm for 27 cents a yard less, on a roll call vote, because of the satisfactory work the firm had previously given the village and the high grade of material supplied.

Streets included in the contract are Main from Eighth east to the village limits; Second Street; Cedar Street from Fifth to Sixth; Sixth, Seventh, Calumet and Ninth. Streets will be seal coated. Ninth and Milwaukee streets will receive most of the crushed rock.

Trustee Willard Franz asked that the board consider the possibility of improving storm sewers on Cedar Street from Seventh to Fifth Streets before the street improvement work is done. It was agreed to seek professional advice.

Franz's suggestion was prompted by a discussion on the overloading of the sewage disposal plant during heavy rain. Village officials are aware that many residents pump water into the sanitary sewage system and measures of "getting tough" with the offenders were considered.

Electric Power To be Shut Off Early Saturday

The Readfield and Bear Creek areas will be temporarily without electrical service early Saturday morning.

Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. has announced that residents of Readfield will be without electricity from 2:30 to 3:30 a.m.

Affected around Readfield will be an area 8 miles north and 8 miles south and 3 miles east and west of the community. This interruption will allow crews to safely install new switches in the Readfield substation.

Service to Bear Creek will be interrupted from 2 to 5 a.m. Residents within a 9-mile radius of the village will be without electrical service from 2 to 3:30 a.m. Saturday.

In both cases, service will be restored sooner if possible.

The power company has scheduled the interruptions while most persons are sleeping. Residents of these areas are asked to reset their clocks and other automatic equipment after electric service is restored.

Doctors, Citizens Urge Treatment For Alcoholics at County Hospital

BY ALICE HUCK

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Two definite steps to give more local help to the alcoholic in Outagamie County were recommended at a joint citizens hospital staff meeting Monday night at the Outagamie County Hospital.

The group unanimously agreed that there was a need for beds and rehabilitative care at the county hospital. Concurrently, they urged the establishment of a downtown Appleton alcoholic information and referral center without delay.

Present at the meeting, at the invitation of Eugene Speener, hospital superintendent, were members of the Citizens Alcoholism Services, members of the Health, Education and Institutions Committee of the county board, the hospital board of trustees, Dr. Keith M. Keane, psychiatrist and Dr. William V. Chandler, general surgeon and "interested physician."

Hospital Role

Speener opened the meeting by telling the group he had been instructed by his board of trustees to see "what the hospital role could be, under our present structure, to help local alcoholics."

Committee Advises Hiring Of Full-Time Process Server

New Proposal Frees Undersheriff For More Investigative Work

The Outagamie County Board's law enforcement committee Thursday afternoon approved for recommendation to the executive committee a sheriff's department plan that would include the hiring of a process server and the freeing of the undersheriff for investigative duties.

The plan received unanimous approval by committee members, and now will come up for action at a joint executive-law enforcement committee meeting. No date was set for the meeting.

Hire Processor
Specifically, the three-point plan provides that a man be hired as soon as possible to work out of the sheriff's department serving legal papers; that the serving of legal papers be formally stricken from the county's job and wage plan as part of the undersheriff's duties, and that no action be taken to fill an investigator position left vacant last month with the resignation of Russell Bowers.

Sheriff Norbert Marx, obviously angered over provisions in the plan, attempted unsuccessfully to get the investigator vacancy filled.

Need Investigator

The sheriff told the committee the work load is too heavy for the three remaining investigators, the undersheriff and the sheriff. "If you don't give me the man, I can't do the job properly," Marx said. Appleton Supv. Eugene Kloes, chairman of the enforcement committee, told Marx the committee would rather "try out" the proposal made Friday; then if the need was shown for an investigator, one could be added.

Add Duties

Kloes said the process server could conceivably handle other sheriff's department duties, such as investigation work, when his work load is slack. For the past several years, it has been the duty of the undersheriff to serve legal papers brought to the sheriff's department. When Bowers resigned, Marx moved Undersheriff Calvin Spice temporarily to investigator and has had off-duty county patrolmen serve the papers. The law enforcement committee, and some other board members, have many times sought to take paper serving out of the hands of the undersheriff.

Appleton Supv. John R. Schreiter said Thursday the proposal would "allow the sheriff to more fully utilize the experience and capabilities of the undersheriff for investigation work."

Open House Scheduled

County Officials Seek Plan for Plamann Park

The park and recreation committee of the Outagamie County Board is sponsoring an open house at Plamann Park Sunday in an effort to increase public awareness of the facility and obtain suggestions for further development.

Persons attending will have the opportunity to view the present facilities and pick up a short questionnaire regarding expansion of the county park system.

The questionnaire seeks opinions on the creation of additional areas for camping, water access, wildlife, winter sports, organized sports such as baseball.

Suggestions Sought

The survey also asks for suggestions for other facilities at Plamann Park and for areas which could be made into a county park.

In the past year, about 400 trees have been planted at the park. A well at the north end and marked trails for hikers, horses and snowmobiles have been proposed as a part of a five-year program, according to Supv. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, a member of the parks and recreation committee.

"We're making progress, but it's just kind of slow," Bubolz said. "Right now, we're looking for some more ideas."

Questions Answered

Members of the committee and a citizen's advisory group headed by Erik Madisen Jr., will be on hand Sunday to

Outagamie Health Committee Will Have Resolution Ready for Action at July's Night Session

Outagamie County Board members will be asked during their July session to pass a resolution authorizing the county to hire a professional sanitarian.

A motion authorizing preparation of the resolution was offered Thursday afternoon by Supv. Waldemar Klein, Appleton, and approved by the board's health, education and institutions committee.

The proposal grew out of a survey by hydrologist Gerald Paul of the Northeastern Regional Planning Commission, which pointed out many existing health and sanitation problems within the county.

Elicit Comments
The morning session of the meeting was designed to acquaint committee members with existing problems and elicit comments on the proposed sanitarian from village and town chairmen and representatives of citizens' groups.

General opinion seemed to be that problems did exist and that some action on the county level was advisable.

Complaints against the effectiveness of the State Board of Health again were heard. Committee chairman Supv. Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, stated, "The best place to start is right at home rather than ask the state for help. We know the problems here."

The only dissenting opinion was voiced by Supv. Emmett Root, Ellington, who said he was in favor of continuing the existing local health-officer structure.

Present Motion

A second motion was presented by Supv. Arnold Welch, Appleton. This motion asked that the committee meet with Corporation Counsel A. W. Poth to draft an ordinance and be advised as to the legalities involved in the hiring of a health official and the execution of his duties.

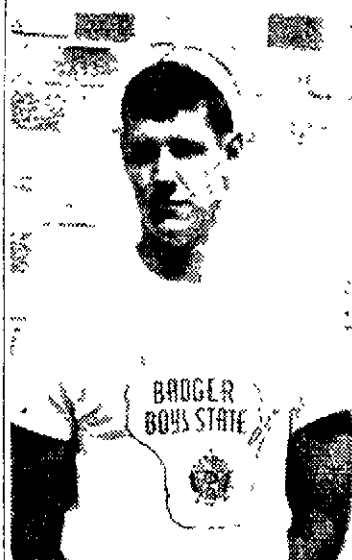

In this, the first move to take the proposal out of the committee discussion stage, DeLaHunt said, "Sooner or later we have to get this on the board floor. I think we have learned as much as we can about attitudes."

The committee expressed some hope that because the July session of the county board is scheduled as a night meeting that some public reaction to the proposal would be indicated.

Judging of the boys was based on their knowledge of dairy cattle management, showmanship ability, knowledge and use of home herd records and their ability to speak on why they selected their particular animal as a brood cow.

Cows were judged on production, type classification and ability to produce off-spring with these characteristics.

Approximately 250 boys from throughout the state were entered. Other boys attending from this area were David and Bill Kosmerchock, Argil Zirbel, Pat Sexton, Randy Brown and Dennis Bonikowski. Ronald Elmhurst Jr., Dairy Herd Improvement Association adviser, attended with the boys.

Angry Committeeman Gets Approval for Raise In Pay for Undersheriff

Obviously angered over the six-month delay in a solution to the undersheriff pay-raise dilemma, Appleton Supv. Eugene Kloes won unanimous approval Thursday afternoon by the law enforcement committee for a $60 a month raise for Calvin Spice.

The raise would be retroactive to Jan. 1, when Spice, a former two-term sheriff, took over undersheriff duties for Sheriff Norbert Marx. However, the committee action must go to the county board's executive committee for final action. No date has been set for the next executive session.

Gets Support
Kloes, chairman of the law enforcement unit, demanded committee action Thursday. He drew support from Hortonville Supv. Emil Diestler who said supervisors have been "criticized by the public for too long" on the undersheriff pay issue.

Wants Action
When one of the committee members suggested the executive committee probably would not go for the proposal, Kloes angrily replied, "I don't care. It's going to be resolved in the next executive committee meeting, or else."

New Computer to Arrive Soon At Outagamie Clerk's Office

Outagamie County's new "direct accounting computer" should arrive at the courthouse by late next week, according to members of the county board's public property and insurance committee. The committee, at a meeting Wednesday, authorized County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeffer and her staff to rearrange the clerk's office to make room for the new $29,000 bookkeeping machine which was recently purchased from The Burroughs Co.

The only changes necessary to accommodate the new machine will be the moving of two large shelf areas on the south side of the office. The present bookkeeping machine will be stored until a specific use is found for it, committee members said.

Appleton Supv. Patrick Mares said his committee has received notice that the new direct accounting computer has been shipped. He said a representative of the Burroughs firm will be in Appleton to help train clerk's office personnel in operation of the new machine.

Natural Gas Users Will Get Refunds in July

WMPCO to Share Rebates of $140,000 From Pipe Company

A total of $140,000 will be refunded during July to natural gas customers in the Fox Cities area.

Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. (WMPCO) announced today. The refund will be shared by 16,280 WMPCO customers in Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and surrounding towns. The Public Service Commission gave the necessary approval Tuesday for the refund.

"We will pass along to our gas customers refunds we have collected from the pipeline supplier," Merlin Abler, director of marketing, explained. "We received the refunds when federal regulatory agencies made some adjustments in the price increases charged by the pipeline company. We were able to absorb the increases and did not have to pass them along to customers. Now we are pleased to pass along the refunds."

Credits on Bills
The refunds will take the form of credits on July bills, Abler said. He explained that residential gas customers will receive refunds ranging from 50 cents to $4.

Larger refunds will go to customers who also use natural gas for home heating. Refunds will be distributed in proportion to the amount of gas used by each residential customer.

Large industrial and commercial customers will receive refund checks, also based on gas consumption.

The last across-the-board refund to all WMPCO gas customers was made in August, 1965.

Soaring Temperatures Cause 2nd 41 Heave; Car Runs Into Chunks

NEENAH — Soaring temperatures and extreme pressures caused the concrete to heave on U.S. 41 Wednesday afternoon, the second eruption in two weeks in the experimental slab built in 1961.

Two cars struck chunks of concrete that erupted from the roadway, a half-mile south of Neenah, around 2:15 p.m. but neither driver was injured.

The continuous re-inforced, nine-inch slab, which stretches from U.S. 45 to State 114 on the southbound lane of U.S. 41, is the only section of uninterrupted pavement in the highway district.

Leroy Empey, district engineer, said the highway maintenance department at Madison would be called in to investigate the blowup. He said the heaving on U.S. 41 was the only location in the state to report such incidents on continuous spans.

Empey added that the stretch, which does not contain joints, provides for excellent riding qualities under heavy traffic conditions but noted the absence of relief for expansion was also the reason for the blow-ups.

The first blowup occurred on June 3, south of County Trunk GG, when the pavement in the southbound lane heaved about 20 inches. Engineers were called to the scene and discovered another portion of the roadway which was on the verge of heaving. Crews took the pressure off the second area by breaking a section of the concrete. Just last week, highway crews discovered a nother section which was about to heave. This was the same area where the incident occurred Wednesday. Workmen cut the right side of the southbound lane to relieve the pressure but officials apparently felt there was no need to relieve the left hand lane. The pressure built up in the left lane and the pavement erupted about 18 inches, damaging two cars which were passing. One car, driven by Helen J. Matteson, 48, 1430 W. Spencer St., Appleton, struck the concrete chunks and swerved into a ditch. Seconds later a car, operated by Fred F. Troxell, 62, route 1, Neenah, ran over the gaping hole in the concrete. Empey said the exact causes for the blowups won't be known for two weeks until engineers have a chance to study the problem. He added, "You probably haven't seen the end of it."

Marshall for the Supreme Court

Americans generally will applaud the nomination by President Johnson of Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall to fill a vacancy on the United States Supreme Court, not for the fact that he will become the first Negro to serve on the nation's highest tribunal, but for the outstanding record he has made in the practice of the law and on the bench.

For 25 years Marshall was a lawyer for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, an advocacy notable for a number of historic decisions he won from the Supreme Court. There was the 1954 ruling on school integration. Others brought down the white primary election in the South, broke exclusion of Negroes from juries and struck at forced confessions.

Marshall served for four years on the

A Hopeful Program

One of the most costly of the state's services is represented in the big institutions for the mentally ill and the mentally retarded. State operated institutions at last count showed a patient population of about 5,400. The total of patients in the more numerous county institutions is even larger, but because care in the local hospitals tends to be less intensive and because policy has been to commit the chronically ill to the county facilities, the per capita costs there are far below those incurred in such hospitals as those of Mendota and Winnebago, Central State Hospital, the several colonies for children, and others.

But one of the most hopeful of the developments in the state mental hospital program during recent years, and one that has had strangely little discussion or publicity, is the experiment in family care for such patients as seem likely to be able to profit from it.

The program is essentially similar to the foster home program for dependent and neglected children. Under such arrangements, a patient lives in a normal community, but in a protected and supervised environment, until he is adjudged ready for complete independence and normal life.

The State Department of Public Welfare, describing its experience with the family care program in a current publication, relates the typical case of the boy who at the age of 12 was committed to Mendota State Hospital near Madison.

Can the Grange Lead?

Many programs are available for community action groups, but often leaders who would ignite the flames of local progress are missing.

The Fox Valley region is fortunate in having two active planning agencies. Since both rural and urban planning and development are essential to future growth the situation calls for more local activity. We must not be trapped in a restrictive viewpoint which favors either rural or urban interests at the other's expense.

Advancing the total economy is a matter of mutual interest. Since the interests of both must be served the bench of the U.S. Circuit Court in New York. A noteworthy ruling was that the constitutional ban on trying a man twice for the same offense applies to the states.

He has served since as solicitor general, and just recently won another significant Supreme Court victory in striking down the California constitutional amendment giving private home owners absolute discretion over sales and rentals.

From his career record it is obvious Marshall will generally side with the liberals on the court headed by Chief Justice Warren. And since he takes the seat of retiring Justice Tom Clark, a conservative, this will strengthen the liberal thinking of the court. But President Johnson could not be expected to act otherwise, having been elected on a most liberal platform himself.

Fourteen years later, at the age of 26, the staff of the hospital concluded he could be safely released into a family care home. He lived in that carefully chosen foster home for a year, working successfully in a local factory. Now, a year after his departure from the home, he has his own apartment, a full-time job, intends to be married within a few months, and has restored his former family relationships. In another age, this young man might have been an institution inmate for life, as well as a heavy burden upon government. Today the men and women who treated him have the deep satisfaction of having salvaged a human being.

The department has many other case histories to show the worth of this imaginative, even courageous approach to the problem of mental illness. More than 500 of such persons have been placed in such family care environments during the last ten years since the experiment was begun. About 450 of them are now living in such homes.

The program has been carefully managed. Both patients and the boarding home families are carefully chosen. Only those patients who no longer need hospitalization, but are not yet ready for complete freedom, are selected. Moreover, only those patients who are quite without friends or relatives capable of assistance are chosen. Wisconsin has not lost its willingness to develop new methods in the resolution of its problems, as this impressively handled effort shows us.

The Grange, moving into its second century of existence, may well serve as a unifying agency because its new outlook considers both interests.

Providing the economic vitality of rural America, however, is not the sole responsibility of a single agency. It needs the attention of government, planning agencies, private business, farm organizations and individual leaders in each community working toward the goal of common progress so the rural areas can play a role in an expanding economy.

Looking Backward

Hurricane Strikes Greenville

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 15, 1867.

Greenville—A terrible hurricane passed through this section of the country last Thursday, doing a vast amount of damage. For about 20 minutes it seemed nothing could withstand its fury.

Nearly everyone we meet tells us of a house or a barn demolished or unroofed, and a cattle killed by falling timber. The roof of Mr. Whitney's barn, in the Town of Dale, was carried about 20 rods. Trees were torn up by the roots, or twisted off and thrown in every direction.

The most valuable timber in the east part of the Town of Greenville and a portion of Grand Chute is a complete "windfall."

Mr. Jabas, of Grand Chute, noticed a tornado worth recording. He happened to be looking in the direction of the forest, a short distance from his house, when the blast struck it. In an instant, about an acre of forest was leveled clean, and of several hundred acres, more than half the trees were struck down.

All fences running north and south were blown into fields.

Much injury was done to growing crops, especially on side hills, by the flood of water which fell. The direction of this hurricane was from the southwest to northeast and it was about three miles in width.

The aircraft carrier Lexington was a casualty of the Battle of the Coral Sea, according to official war news from Washington. The Lexington

Demands Public Hearing On Appleton Water Line

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This is an answer to Mayor George Buckley's article, "Suspects HUD giving run around to Appleton's request for federal aid for the Winnebago Pipe Line Project."

I suppose I am also one of the so-called crack-pots who have been writing HUD about this project. If Mr. Buckley will recall I asked him two years ago if he intended to have a public hearing on this project. I said if he did not intend to have a hearing I would petition the State of Wisconsin to request a public hearing. He said this would not be necessary.

After several months with no public hearing I requested Sen. William Proxmire in Washington, D.C. to reject any aid on this project and also HUD until the public, sportsmen and taxpayers were given a public hearing.

Mr. Buckley! Why no public hearing? No one is denying water to the city of Appleton. Many millions of dollars have been spent on cleaning up the present water supply. Why

Israeli Victory in Middle East Could be Cold War Turning Point

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Good things do not always happen, but maybe it's time to remember that good things are possible. Why not speculate on the aftermath of the Israeli victory in that direction?

Surely the Kremlin may try to recoup its Middle East position and a new crisis evolve. Soviet diplomacy is as dangerous as a camel's kiss. Kremlin diplomacy is like the man who was walking in the woods and stopped when he saw a snake. It turned out to be a stick. And the stick he picked up to kill it with, ah, the stick turned out to be a snake.

Taylor

But Soviet invincibility? The Israeli puncture let some of the ether in that myth escape. To our advantage, this is a lesson that will impress all our enemies throughout the world.

POOR POLO PLAYERS

One thing Arabs have in common is that they must disagree. The Arab, mounted on a magnificent Arabian stallion, is probably the greatest horseman in the world. But to form great Arab riders into polo teams has always failed. The Arab simply will not share the ball.

Surrounded, and outgunned, little Israel's victory could not have displayed this Arab weakness more clearly if it had been written in neon lights. And that's important.

World War II turned in the Middle East for the Allied powers. Winston Churchill called the El Alamein victory "the hinge of fate."

"Before Alamein we never had a victory," he said. "After Alamein we never had a defeat."

Benito Mussolini shipped his favorite horse by plane to North Africa as preparation for his entry as conqueror in Alexandria. He never entered Alexandria; he lost North Africa, and barely managed to get his horse back alive. Suppose our cold war turns there?

CROSSROADS OF WORLD

This is the true crossroads of the world. Through there passes all the air and sea routes between Europe and India, East Africa, the oil-rich Arabian peninsula, Southeast Asia, the Far East, New Zealand and Australia. It is the land bridge between Asia and Africa.

Soviet strategy has been to advance along this land bridge on the south rim of the Mediterranean ("middle of the world") sea in a military-political outflanking of Europe. Gamal Abdel Nasser, a cunning contriver, racked by greed, green with envy, totally devoted to power and to himself, has been the Kremlin's Castro there. Egypt has been the Soviet's Mediterranean lodgement as the counterpart to its Caribbean lodgement secured in Cuba, inside our own home defense perimeter.

We are told that anti-Israel animosities will continue, and probably intensify. I suppose they will. But so will recriminations inside the Arab world. The Soviet can never rebuild a successful coalition around Nasser, his successor, or anyone else in this strategic region. And, instead of a Kremlin stooge serving the Soviet global design there, the West now has an anti-Soviet Israel.

The better outlook should also be bracketed with the better outlook south of our own hemisphere, where another good thing happened.

BRAZIL RED TARGET

The great Red Target from the Kremlin's Cuban base, expanded to the Dominican Republic, was Brazil, which borders on all but two South American countries. And the Red star was over Brazil.

Former Brazilian President Joao Goulart's Red record was flagrant. In fact, Goulart had returned from the embrace of Mao Tse-tung in Peking to take over the Presidency — a man cut out of the same cloth as Nasser.

Dominican Communist Party executive committee members N. I. Conde, a Castroite trained in Cuba, and I. I. Quello, who was secretly landed in Santo Domingo from Moscow shortly before the attack, confirm in the Moscow magazine, World Marxist Review, that only U. S. armed intervention defeated the Red take-over program. They confirm that this thrust was on the same pattern that delivered Cuba to Castro and, "in spirit and meaning," both moves were connected as part of a whole.

Only President Johnson's immediate and successful intervention in the Dominican Republic saved us from another Castro in the Caribbean and, by now, probably a Red Brazil.

I believe we've seen a fundamental turn for the better in the Middle East crossroads of the world, as we did off the shores of Brazil.

Maybe We Need Big Stick Again

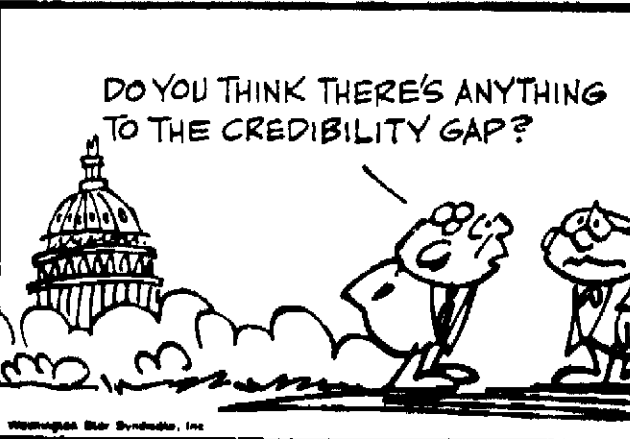

Editor, Post-Crescent

News media in the past few days reveal what an inspired, united, David-like nation can do to a collection of encircling Goliaths. It didn't require a frenzied, banner-waving mob of irresponsible, thankless war-seeking people.

I doubt a one-eyed general could have taught a Gen. Douglas MacArthur or our present Chiefs of Staff much in the line of strategy, but I do think it past due that a double talk president and a former Edsel executive stop, look and listen, and assemble their shoulder chips into the shape a Teddy Roosevelt could and would use to our's and the world's good, in a short time at a greatly reduced price.

John Doe Hearing Into Illegal Lobbying Was Forced on Prosecutor

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — James C. Boll is a tall, husky and earnest man of 32 who became district attorney of Dane County several months ago by the appointment of Gov. Knowles. The next few months will probably decide whether there is a future in Wisconsin politics for him, as there was for other men who have served as prosecutors in the big county which includes the capital city.

Wyngaard

The new district attorney, to the surprise of many Madison residents and observers elsewhere, and possibly to the dismay of others, has decided to reopen the investigation into allegations of illegal lobbying and improper legislative conduct that was begun by a predecessor and that thus far has not resulted in the conviction of a single person against whom a grand jury issued major indictments.

Boll has summoned a John Doe inquiry, with the approval of a Dane County judge. It will start its secret deliberations here next Monday. Some of the witnesses called are the same persons who were called to testify before the earlier grand jury. Several of them were the targets of the grand jury indictments.

WHY AGAIN?

For some of the witnesses who spent a good deal of time in the grand jury room a year ago, the new subpoenas are doubtless nuisances.

A witness who is asked to appear in such a proceeding is not necessarily, or even probably, suspected of wrongdoing, as judges always urge reporters writing about these affairs to make clear.

Yet there is an unpleasantness about it. There are those folk who persist in believing that such an appearance improper about the activities or the record of the witness.

Why then, after the collapse of the cases against the major defendants during the last year, should the new district attorney persist in continuing the cause? His own published declaration that "I'm going to do what's right, no matter what the consequences," may have a bellicose ring about it.

DIDN'T HAVE CHOICE

This reporter has no desire to speculate in these sensitive affairs, but it seems clear that young Mr. Boll, whatever his inclinations, really didn't have any choice after the last of the defendants among those indicted earlier had his case dismissed because of the illness of the star prosecution witness. That defendant claimed that he had been the target of an extortion attempt by that incapacitated witness, and implied, at least, that his indictment was related to the vindictiveness of the alleged extortionist.

No self-respecting law enforcement officer could easily ignore such a challenge. Mr. Boll has not chosen to do so.

Some of the legislators who have been named in subpoenas to answer questions in the John Doe are grumbling about the fact and suggesting that they will refuse under their constitutional right of immunity.

There is no doubt that they are immune from such summons, if they insist upon using their technical rights. Yet a friendly counselor might suggest that their constituents may be puzzled by their insistence upon refusing the invitations. They can claim that they are engaged in legislative business. But the district attorney no doubt would arrange for their appearances at their convenience, perhaps even after the legislative recess. Insistence upon technical rights, in such circumstances, might lead to questions about the reasons for their hesitation or their indifference to the opportunity to clear up a murky situation once and for all.

Television News Far From Its Potential

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

During the AFTRA strike this spring, when the network performers walked out in support of the newscasters, I watched the substitute newscasters, and could hardly tell the difference.

Harris

Speaking as a newspaperman for almost 30 years, I feel no hesitancy in saying that news reporting on television would have to improve enormously just to be mediocre.

The newscasters were striking for more pay, but they are not worth half of what they are getting now for what they are doing. If, on the other hand, they were really doing a good job, they would deserve as much as they are getting.

With a few singular exceptions, most newscasters look and sound like dummies. They pronounce the words carefully, but seem to have little comprehension of what they are saying — and most of what they are saying is just a warmed-up rehash of the press service ticker.

The few stars of network newscasting receive tremendous salaries (which they are not worth, in my opinion) for banal and superficial comments that scarcely reach the level of a decent college newspaper. They are more an arm of show business than of information; and nobody who relied on them for knowledge of the world would know enough to make any intelligent decisions on public affairs.

As for the non-stars, the ordinary bread-and-butter newscasters who were asking for more money — I can't see why any reasonably alert 12-year-old boy couldn't do as well as they do. In fact, I happen to know a 12-year-old boy — know him very well — who could do even better.

Most of the fault for the incredibly shallow and vapid news reporting on television must be laid at the door of the networks, which are rich, greedy and dumb beyond all belief. They make millions on the most asinine programs, and are too fat, lazy and shortsighted to spend an adequate amount of their profits on public service of any kind.

The American public needs information and education today as never before; and television could be, and should be, the most direct and effective means of informing the public about the most important issues of the day. That this great tool should be used mainly to swell the coffers of a few networks is a shocking indictment of our system.

Television news should be reported, discussed and analyzed by men of stature, training and background; by varied teams of professionals in public service and foreign affairs; by intellectuals, academics, and researchers in the social and behavioral sciences. By men, in short, who know how to think, and have something to say. These men would be worth a million. Their pallid imitations today aren't worth a dime.

Assembly Turns Down 'Dummy' Corporations

Lower House Votes 85-11 for Constitutional Amendment to Drop Extra-Legal Groups

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — An overwhelming vote of Wisconsin assemblymen Tuesday indicated the Legislature's desire to get rid of "dummy" bonding corporations and to regularize the state's heavy borrowing for capital construction purposes.

But there remains considerable doubt, nevertheless, that they will achieve their purpose. Assemblymen without party distinction gave an 85 to 11 vote of approval for the second time to a constitutional amendment proposing to get rid of the extra-legal bonding corporations and to permit the state to issue "full faith and credit" bonds for building construction as do other governmental units.

"Technically Defective" But they acted with the knowledge that the amendment has been held to be technically defective by experienced bond counsel and constitutional lawyers, and that the amendment process may have to be repeated later.

Here is the sequence of events that led to the blurred situation on the long-argued state debt question: The 1965 Legislature, with backing of leaders of both parties, gave the required first approval to an amendment for full faith and credit bonding

Committee to Discuss Sports Area Proposal

Advancement Group Wants New Complex For Year-Round Use

A proposal by the Northside Advancement Association for the construction of a new sports complex is scheduled to be taken up at the June 22 meeting of the public property and insurance committee of the Outagamie County Board.

The proposal was submitted some time ago in a letter to the county board, but has not been acted on. A copy of the proposal was also sent to Ervin W. Conradt, Outagamie County third district assemblyman who has announced his support of the plan.

Express Opposition Some officials have expressed opposition to the proposal on the idea that it would conflict in some areas with the planned Jones Park renewal.

The original proposition by the Northside Advancement Association came into being as a result of discussions on the proposed sale or renovation of Goodland Field.

John A. Hennessey, president of the association, stated that it was the group's opinion that an expenditure of $40,000 to revitalize Goodland Field facilities was a waste of money.

He stated that the renovated field would only once again become obsolete and further work would have to be done. It is the opinion of the association that the best proposition would be to sell Goodland Field and begin again with an entirely new sports complex of modern and diverse facilities.

Urges Domed Structure The association proposal includes no definite terms for facilities to be included in the complex, but recommends a domed structure that could be used in conjunction with other facilities for year-round sports activities.

Hennessey stated the most likely plan would be to begin with a baseball park and then add other facilities as need dictates.

One suggested structure is some sort of accommodation for conventions that might seat as many as 1,000 people. Hennessey said this need not be as elaborate as an auditorium, but expressed the opinion that some sort of convention facility of this type was needed in Appleton.

Location Debated Suggested locations for the complex have also met with considerable opposition. The Advancement Association proposed the old Outagamie County airport and the county hospital area as possible sites.

Hennessey stated, however, that the group would endorse another site if a suitable one could be found. The association is willing to contribute finances for a study of the proposal and possible sites.

Hennessey also said that the northside group is not in opposition to downtown revitalization and renewal plans for Jones Park, but felt that congestion in the downtown area and limited space available at Jones Park for large facilities made construction of any sort of large complex in that area inadvisable.

Outagamie Gets Theft Report

Outagamie County authorities are investigating the theft of six cases of beer, seven cartons of cigarettes, and six cases of soda within the past days from the KK Sports Arena south of Kaukauna.

Investigators said the items were taken from a small building on which the padlock was smashed.

Alderman's Two Sons Hurt in Crash

Schwartzbauer Car Collides With Vehicle Parking

Two sons of an Appleton alderman were among four young people injured in two accidents on city streets Wednesday afternoon.

Paul, 4, and Michael, 11, Schwartzbauer, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Schwartzbauer, 82 Foster Court, suffered head injuries in an accident about 2:40 p.m. in the 200 block of N. Appleton Street.

They were in a car driven by their father, who is Appleton's 10th Ward alderman, which was involved in an accident with a car driven by August E. Polack, 45, 1909 E. Marquette St. Appleton police said that Polack was backing into a parallel parking stall and Schwartzbauer had just made a right turn off Franklin Street onto Appleton Street when the accident occurred.

Two youths were injured in a bicycle, motor bike accident about 3:50 p.m. Wednesday on S. Oneida Street, near the driveway to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Dennis McKeever, 16, 220 S. State St., operator of the motorbike, was taken by Lindy's Ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment of leg injuries. Claudia Jones, 12, 2517 Southwood Drive, Appleton, the bicyclist, suffered a left elbow abrasion.

Police said the bicycle entered Oneida Street from the driveway, into the path of the northbound motorcycle.

Pointed Stick Punctures Young Cyclist's Leg

Jess Miles, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Miles, 1524 E. Tracy St., suffered a puncture wound in the lower left leg while riding a bicycle near his home about noon Wednesday.

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad took the boy to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated and released. A playmate reportedly threw a pointed stick which imbedded in the boy's leg. The stick became imbedded deeper when it was jammed against the bicycle the Miles boy was riding.

The boy reportedly lost a considerable amount of blood.

Car Fire Starts From Overloaded Carburetor

A car owned by Alex Knaus, 919 E. Lindbergh St., caught fire about 4:20 p.m. Wednesday at Memorial Drive and Lawrence Street.

Appleton firemen said the blaze broke out when a carburetor was overloaded with gasoline. The fire burned wiring and hoses and scorched the hood. Knaus had used an extinguisher and had the blaze nearly out when firemen arrived.

a low spot in the street in front of the school had been flooded with overflow from the Mielke farm site. "The ground is so saturated now that it's mostly run-off," he said.

Two trees were uprooted in the Town of Neenah and porch roofs were reported blown off houses at Indian Shores, Winneconne, but no other severe damage was reported.

Wisconsin Public Service Corp. reported that "something like a tornado" blew down both ends of a major feeder line serving Larsen, Winneconne and Butte des Morts. Power was out at Butte des Morts until 9 p.m. and at Larsen and Winchester until 12:30 a.m. today.

Isolated customers in the area had no service this morning.

A tree four feet in diameter fell across State 110 at Winnebago County Trunk G near Butte des Morts. Traffic had to be routed around it for three hours until it could be moved.

A total of 5.83 inches of precipitation has fallen in Appleton this month, but the weather conditions have not yet matched the problems caused 100 years ago by the appearance of a "hurricane."

Houses Demolished
The Appleton Crescent of June 15, 1867 reported a "terrible hurricane" passed through the Town of Greenville June 13, demolishing and unroofing houses and barns.

The roof of a barn was reported carried about 30 feet, while telegraph wires were demolished and houses "deluged" with water in the young community of Appleton.

At least part of the cause for the rainy weather in June has been a mass of air under high pressure in the southeastern part of the country. This has blocked the movement of the air under lower pressure, according to officials at the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. weather station.

The weather bureau has reported that the storms and high winds are spawned by a mass of cold air drifting in from Canada. The air movements were expected to chase away by Saturday the humid air which has cloaked the state for more than a week.

Normally storm systems move through the midcontinental area. Weathermen say the high pressure area has prevented this movement so far.

Officials in LaCrosse and Monroe counties received reports Thursday of funnel-shaped clouds, and tornadoes were reported to have touched down in Minnesota a few miles west of LaCrosse.

The Monroe County sheriff and the directors of the office reported that a twister brushed the ground near Calaract but caused no damage. High winds felled trees near Galesville and ripped off a portion of a barn roof.

But resistance from rural Republicans has imperiled his proposal for a department of local affairs and development to study the problems of local governments, particularly in urban areas.

The governor's air pollution control bill breezed through the Senate in five minutes Thursday in contrast to two brushes with defeat for the proposed department.

Republican foes twice switched their votes to change the outcome and keep the local government bill alive. A passage showdown is set for Tuesday.

Preliminary Okay
The measure got preliminary approval on an 18-15 reprieve. But one senator warned: "The final vote is what counts."

The new department would embrace existing activities in economic promotion, civil defense and antipoverty programs while creating a new division on local-state cooperation.

A special urban affairs office would be set up in Milwaukee. The air pollution control measure would give broad powers to the Department of Resource Development, which already runs the war on water pollution.

That agency would be given much authority to act against smoke, automobile exhaust fumes, junkyards, incinerators, garbage dumps and litter.

It would be able to set standards on sites, design and operation of waste disposal facilities, and could back up its rules with enforcement orders.

Similar Form
The measure was approved largely in the same form as the Assembly had passed it 97-2 in April.

However, four Senate word-changes will require a return trip to the lower house before the bill can reach Knowles' desk.

The Republican proposal had been substituted for an original Democratic bill in the Assembly. The Senate spent all day Wednesday in turning back Democrats' attempts to restore portions of their bill, then whisked the measure through after only one speech Thursday.

Milwaukee Vote
The four votes against the proposal were cast by Milwaukee Democrats. Seven other Democrats and all 21 Republicans in the Senate voted for the bill.

The department would draw up rules on garbage dumps, junkyards and incinerators by Jan. 1.

It would have the power to write rules to regulate truck and automobile exhaust fumes, although no deadline was set. The agency could classify sources of air contamination and require reports from private industries.

Although enforcement would be left largely to counties, the department could step in to enforce state standards.

Senate Debate Reopened on Kellett Bill
MADISON (AP) — The State Senate reopened today the controversy over the Kellett bill to realign state government.

The dispute was granted top priority on the Senate agenda, with majority leader Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, predicting a Saturday session might be needed if debate ran overtime.

Both Republicans and Democrats went into extended closed-door talks at the start of today's session to try to solve the thorny question of a mid-1968 conservation merger.

Senate leaders said the private strategy sessions might last much of the day.

At stake in the Kellett bill, designed to streamline state government, is the stormy issue of combining the Conservation Department, which handles outdoor recreation, with the Resource Development Department, which runs the war on water pollution.

The companion told authorities that after reaching shore, he saw the log floating downstream with Rickey hanging on to it.

Quinn recalled that the site selection process was legal and fully approved of by the Legislature, the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, the State Building Commission and the governor.

"Are we going to take the advice and research of professional and technical people trained in selecting sites or are we going to let a few disgruntled legislators pick these sites for us?" asked Quinn.

Assemblyman David Obey, D-Wausau, repeated charges that an Appleton business leader called him last winter and implied that support for the Rogers Bill could win him a seat on the Assembly Education Committee. And he expanded his charges to state that a seat on the building commission also was suggested.

"Had Been Changed"
"I maintain that the criteria had been changed," before the selection was made, Rogers said.

He charged that the east-side site is not presently available because of condemnation problems involving Shorewood Golf Course and said that the west-side Larsen Farms site is more available even though part of it has been turned into an industrial park.

The figures cited by opponents of the bill claiming that the eastside location is available to more students are inaccurate, he claimed.

students to reach the east-side site.

Martin charged that the site selection committee had made its final decision on the basis of esthetics alone and gave no consideration to other needs of the new school. He admitted that money might be lost in a transfer, but said that Brown County and state planners knew the fight was coming and proceeded with preparations for the school anyway.

"They took that risk and I'm sorry for that," said Martin.

Repay County
The bill considered contains an amendment calling on the state to sell the Shorewood site and repay the county purchase costs plus 5 per cent interest.

Brown County would have to supply the Larsen Farms land to the state free under the bill.

Miss Richards said she was ordered to a rear room where she complied with instructions to open the vault and put all of its currency in a paper sack.

Disney Film Studio, Projects Keep Going According to Schedule

Tomorrowland Opens in June; World of Future Underway Near Orlando, Fla.

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Disney studio has always occupied a unique position in the film industry, and so it remains six months after Walt Disney's death.

All other movie companies now take in stars, producers and directors as partners, giving them autonomy and a share of the profits. The Disney studio remains authoritarian, and no outsider participates in the profits.

Other studios purvey increasing quantities of sex and violence. Disney films are doggedly aimed at the family audience.

Highbrow critics rail at the Disney product as juvenile and old-fashioned. The Disney people merely point to happy audiences—and stockholders. For the half-year ending April 1, net income from Walt Disney Productions and its subsidiaries was $4,898,000, up from $4,502,000 for the like period last year.

Stock Keeps Rising Many expected Disney stock to plummet after the death of the empire's guiding genius. Astonishingly, it rose to new highs. The quotation was 69 when Walt succumbed Dec. 15; lately it has been in the high 90s.

President Roy Disney has said the upward trend started before Walt died: all film stocks have risen as buyers realized the immense worth of the movie backlogs. Investors may also have been influenced by rumors of a merger of Disney with a huge corporation.

Roy scorns such an idea. "We continue to get offers of merger or acquisition by big companies in steel, food, merchandizing, technical companies and conglomerates like Litton," he said. "If we accepted such an offer, it would mean dominance by outsiders. We know our operation; we've been selling entertainment for over 40 years. We don't need anyone to tell us how to do it."

Don't Need Money "Why would we merge—for money? We don't need money. Now, we're not going to turn our back on any money that's offered us. But it's not worth it at that price."

Roy added that the Disney organization would not lack for projects, thanks to the foresight of Walt.

"He was the damndest planner I ever saw," said the older brother with unconcealed admiration. "He loved planning things that might be three, five, even ten years in the future. That was what was so unusual about the fellow: He could take care of matters at hand while dreaming for the future."

"That's why we're in such good condition today. Most other film companies are in a hysteria of mergers, acquisitions and diversification; that's because they didn't plan. We've got enough going to keep us busy for years."

Walt's Plans Keep Going He outlined major areas:

1. Disney World. The Florida Legislature passed and the governor signed enabling legislation for creation of a 43-square-mile complex near Orlando to house an entertainment park, city of tomorrow, industrial park and airport of the future.

Research on the first phase has begun—a water control plan and a design for the park. Consultations have started with big corporations which want to share in the whole project.

"We hope to open the entertainment complex in January of 1971," said Disney. "We'll open up with a good show, but the park will continue to grow for five to seven years. We hope to have the city of tomorrow up and running by 1978."

2. Disneyland will open a new $22-million Tomorrowland in late June. Total improvements for the past three years: $60 million.

"Now we'll give priority to Florida," said Disney. "But we'll always be looking for ways to improve capacity at Disneyland. This year we expect 7,400,000 visitors, a record. We have to give people new reasons to go to Disneyland."

3. Feature movies. Three films have been completed this year, all bearing the familiar label "Walt Disney Presents," since he prepared them. Future movies, the work of other film makers, will carry such an imprint as "A Walt Disney Production."

Road Show. TV Show This summer the company is releasing its first road-show attraction, "The Happiest Millionaire," which it hopes will have the impact of "Mary Poppins." A total of 49 properties are in various stages of production.

4. Television. The company has almost completed its 26-hour-long programs for the coming season, to feature a new sponsor, Gulf. The Sunday night show on NBC will continue to be called "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color."

California Resort 5. Mineral King. The state of California has approved building of a highway to the proposed

Rockin' Round the Valley

Audience Reactions Vary for Catalinas

BY CHUCK POSNIAK

Five years ago four area musicians Bob Dix, Jim Kelly, Harry Wheelock, and Al Posniak, formed a band which gained a great amount of popularity around the state.

About two years ago the group decided to spread its playing area out of the state. So in June, 1965, along with Judy Lee, vocalist from Green Bay, they left for a road tour. Soon afterwards, Judy began to suffer from voice strain, and she returned to Green Bay.

Busy Recording For six months the band remained a four-piece group, recording many records such as "War Party," "Crazy Twistin' Baby," "Forever and a Day," "Hey Little Girl," "Wo, Wo," "By My Window" and "Dee Dee."

When the big band sound such as the sound of the Tijuana Brass, came in, the group added saxophonist, Roger Loos from Oshkosh. That next year the group released two more records, "Come To Me," backed with "Yakety Sax Express" and "Mojo Workin'" teamed with "Dee Dee."

In January, 1967, Al and Roger decided to go off in their own directions. The remaining three members decided to stick together, adding Milwaukee vocalist Pete Sorce.

Come to Appleton Last week The Golden Catalinas — that's the name of the group — played in Appleton for the first time in about eight months, and for the first time with their newest member.

Audience reactions were varied. Comments such as, "They're Great!", "They're not as good as they used to be", or, "They're all right," could be heard quite often.

While most groups depend on songs currently on the top of the charts, the Catalinas depend on older songs or songs from albums which they have updated to their own style.

All four members of the Catalinas project their own individual personalities while others identify only as a group. If a person happens to like a group which plays only top 10 material, he won't like the Catalinas.

If he likes a group with personality and a style of its own, he will like the Catalinas. This is the answer for the variations.

Cuban Stenographers 'Honored' by Being Trained to Run Lathes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban women and girls are going from their typewriters to plants where they will learn to operate lathes. Havana Radio said Thursday.

"The Cuban government has honored 150 women office workers," the broadcast, monitored here, said in announcing the shift of the women from clerical work to industry.

The training will begin July 1 and last 18 months, the news-cast said.

When they reach a town that is apparently deserted, West scouts around and finds a citizen whose explanation is: "We had an epidemic . . . of broken necks." And two scenes later, he is stricken with the same malady. (C-R)

7-8 Channels 11-6-9 — Time Tunnel has a western setting as James Darren and Robert Colbert pop into the action of the last stand of the Alamo. They couldn't arrive at a worse time: Davy Crockett has been killed and it looks as if Santa Ana (c.q.) is ready to swarm over the Texas mission. (C-R)

7:30-8:30 Channels 4-5 — The Man From U.N.C.L.E. offers a variety of amusement and suspense with "The Deadly Smorgasbord Affair." Nevertheless it turns out to be routine adventure. THRUSH is up to its old tricks, trying to freeze out U.N.C.L.E. so it can control the world. (C-R)

8:30-9 Channels 4-5 — T.H.E. Cat has another hit-and-run episode with William Daniels (who plays Captain Nice— as a chap who is worrying himself to death because life has been too easy for him. He is the kind of guy who, if he fell into a pit of lions, all the beasts would kiss. (C-R)

9-10 — Channels 11-6-9 — The Avengers are after a talkative parrot called Captain Cruso who may be responsible for the murder of a counter-counter spy who has ended up in a concrete bert pop into the action of the heap. This is an amusing and very entertaining episode. (C-R)

Bank Robber Goes to Complaint Department
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was only a small bank holdup — $41.98. Police said the bandit was a customer, who told a teller Wednesday that he had a complaint.
A court order delivered earlier to the bank attached the man's account and the bank deducted a check for $41.98 as a result.
"I want my money back," the man demanded.
When the teller refused, he left but returned with a pistol, took the $41.98 at gunpoint and fled.
